BOMBER CUT PLANNED

WAR MENACE CITED . . .

Russian Arms Budget Boosted

Moscow (AP)—Citing a growing war menace, the Soviet Union Tuesday reversed a two-year policy of announced defense cuts and ordered a five per cent increase in defense spending for 1966.

"The international situation is aggravating and the war menace growing," Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov said in announcing the 600 million-ruble ($666 million) boost in defense spending for next year.

In Washington, the Soviet announcement was viewed as a sharp new jolt to East-West disarmament hopes.

Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, that the 1966 budget also provides for more and better consumer goods, although the stress remained on heavy industry.

Plans for increased spending came at a time when the Soviet rate of industrial growth continues to decline.

Without mentioning Viet Nam specifically, Garbuzov explained the increase in defense spending this way:

"The latest events testify to the growing activity of the aggressive forces of the imperialist states, to the desire to create ever new seats of war, to arrest the process of social and national liberation by military means."

He said defense spending next year would total 13.4 billion rubles or 12.8% of the 1966 budget he unveiled.

Many Western experts consider both figures misleading. They believe the defense spending figure is possibly as much as twice as high, with the second half hidden in other parts of the budget.

These experts also believe it is impossible to compare the percentage figure with Western government budgets.

This is because the Soviet budget covers investment throughout the state-run economy while, in the West, such investments are handled by private industry. It also covers social services that are privately financed in the West. The Soviet percentage thus applies to a larger total.

Last Year Cut

Last year Garbuzov announced a cut of 500 million rubles in defense spending and appealed to other countries to follow suit.

The year before former Premier Nikita Khrushchev sliced announced defense spending by 600 million rubles.

Despite the defense increase, the new budget and the economic development plan for 1966, which was also disclosed Tuesday, both called for more investment in farms and factories.

Deputy Premier Nikolai Baibakov conceded a further slowdown in the rate of Soviet industrial growth. As chairman of the state planning committee, he introduced the 1966 plan and said it calls for a 6.7% increase in industrial growth over the 1965 level. Last year the target for industrial growth was an 8.1% increase.

Soviet industrial growth rates have been slipping from the 1959 peak of a claimed 11.4%. But total industrial output has steadily increased in recent years.

After debating the plan and the budget, the Supreme Soviet is expected to give quick approval to both.

Force To Be Third

. . . BY 1971

Washington (AP) — Officials plan to reduce the U.S. long-range bomber force to about 250 planes—about one third of current bomber strength by 1971, sources indicated Tuesday night.

At the same time, the sources indicated that U.S. air defenses against the Russian bomber threat also will be scaled down.

Information given to Congress in connection with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to cut out 149 more military bases pointed in the direction of a bomber and air defense cutback.

Details Today

Details of the planned base closing are expected to be made public Wednesday by the Defense Department.

By all signs, the Pentagon intends to retain a bomber force of some 250 B52G and B52H models after 1971. These are the latest versions of the B52. They have greater range and more powerful engines than the earlier models.

Currently, the United States has about 680 long-range bombers—about 600 of them B52s and about 80 supersonic B58s.

Congress has been informed that all the B58s will be out of service by 1971, as apparently will all B52s from the model B through F.

New One Rumored

The decision to phase out B52s and B58s over the next five or six years may be tied to a reported intention by the administration to propose an advanced bomber, a version of the controversial TFX airplane.

It is known that top defense officials have been considering ordering an adaptation of the TFX, which is now designed chiefly as a fighter into a bomber version which would be heavier and longer than the fighter type.

This is regarded as a compromise well short of the Air Force's proposal to build an entirely new advanced manned strategic aircraft which would cost an estimated $10 billion.

Reductions

Pentagon plans, as indicated in the reports to congressmen, apparently call for reducing the number of fighter-interceptor squadrons and the number of Nike-Hercules antiaircraft missile batteries.

The United States currently is estimated to have a 6-to-1 margin of superiority over the Russians in long-range bombers.

A scaling down of air defenses probably means that U.S. planners now consider a bomber attack on the United States highly unlikely.

Just a few years ago, the United States had about 2,000 bombers. But in 1959 it began to retire the older six-jet B47 bomber and now only about 200 of these are left in service. They are all due to be in retirement by next June 30.

Missile Reliance

The United States is placing reliance on missiles and now has about 854 land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles poised on launching pads.

In addition, this country is well on its way towards completing its planned fleet of 41 Polaris missile firing submarines, each of which will carry 16 nuclear-tipped missiles able to reach deep into Red China or Russia. The 32nd Polaris submarine will be commissioned Friday.

The Pentagon base closing plans also appeared to mean the elimination of several Air National Guard transport squadrons flying elderly C97 transport planes.

Gemini 7 Tweaked To Higher Orbit For Date With Sister 6

Space Center, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Voices bright but husky, Gemini 7 pilots Frank Borman and James Lovell gave their spacecraft a "tweak" of rocket power Tuesday—nudging it into higher orbit for a coming date with a sister ship in space.

"See ya around," quipped Lovell in a spirited baritone, tinged with hoarseness.

At Cape Kennedy, Fla., there was trouble with the computer aboard the Gemini 6 spacecraft that will hunt down and fly formation with the Gemini 7.

The computer problem darkened chances of a Gemini 6 launch as early as Sunday.

Flight officials first figured they would only need to replace the memory of the computer. However, it was decided later that the instrument was "overly sensitive" and would be replaced.

The Gemini 6 pilots, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, will begin a crucial dress rehearsal flight in the Gemini 6 spacecraft late Wednesday.

The techniques that the Gemini 6 pilots will use in their pursuit after Gemini 7 are essential for the U.S. effort to reach the moon. This is their first trial, and would be the first formation flight in space history.

In Gemini 7, Lovell continued to fly in his underwear through the fourth day. It is up to him when he will don his spacesuit again, and give Borman a chance at flying without spacesuit protection. He took his suit off Monday.

Flight officials used the term "tweak" to describe the short burst of rocket power—the pinch or sudden jerk of acceleration they had ordered for Gemini 7.

Between 146, 197

At 12:13 a.m. CST, the astronauts fired the 100-pounds-thrust aft booster rockets to shove Gemini 7 ahead 12-feet-per-second faster. It boosted the low point of the orbit eight miles to a point 146 miles above the earth. The high point is now 197 miles above the earth.

The firing lasted 16½ seconds. It came over the Pacific between Australia and Canton Island in the 44th orbit.

This tended to make the orbit a little more circular. Before Gemini 6 is launched, Gemini 7 will fire its rockets again to make its orbit a more-nearly-perfect circle.

Reeb Stayed Conscious

Selma, Ala. (UPI)—A California minister testified Tuesday that the Rev. James Reeb of Boston remained conscious, but incoherent and in pain, for 45 minutes after he was fatally beaten on a dark Selma street last March.

The Rev. Clark Olson, a Unitarian-Universalist minister from Berkeley, Calif., was the first prosecution witness in the trial of three white men for the murder of the Rev. Mr. Reeb, also a Unitarian minister.

He died in a Birmingham hospital several days after he, the Rev. Mr. Olson and another minister were beaten during the height of Selma's racial strife last March.

O'Neal Hoggle, 33, a mechanic; his brother, William Stanley Hoggle, 36, a salesman, and novelty store manager Elmer Cook, 41, are accused of slaying Reeb.

Defense attorney Joe Pilcher told the all-white jury that he would attempt to prove two points—that someone other than his client attacked Reeb, and that between the time Reeb was taken by ambulance from a Selma infirmary and the time he arrived at a Birmingham hospital, something happened to make his head injury "different."

It's a little like playing Stump the Experts.

"Where did Christmas cards originate?"

"How do you spell 'gregarious'?"

"How many acres are there in New York's Central Park?"

At least once every 15 minutes, according to recent statistics, someone phones the reference desk at Bennett Martin Public Library with such a question.

But the "experts," armed with shelves and filing cabinets full of ready answers, are rarely stumped, according to Charles E. Dalrymple, the library's director.

Dalrymple noted in his November director's report that Bennett Martin received 2,000 calls in two week's time, 1,669 of which were "department calls."

Direct Aid

Department calls, he said, are calls which, when answered, directly aid the public. Of the 1,669 departmental calls, 664 were for the reference desk, which is operated by professional librarians Ethel Maurer and Hazel Scheiber who are aided by a clerk, a part-time clerk and two pages. Incoming calls are limited to three minutes and sources are always given.

Questions, starting with the type most frequently asked, Dalrymple said, are:

—Directory type. (Where may I buy artificial human skulls?)

—How do you spell. . .? (Is it Charles de Gaulle with a big or a little D?)

—Identifying quotations.

—Atlas type questions: (What is the altitude of Little Rock, Ark.?)

What Ever Happened. . .?

—Current events information. (What ever happened to Jimmy Hoffa?)

—Books, plays, drama, theater and music.

Besides general questions in these areas, Dalrymple said the reference service gets heavy use by the Lincoln business world.

Reference material kept ready for business includes Federal Reserve Board reports, Moody's stock reports and Barron's Commercial and Financial Chronicles, to name a few, Dalrymple noted.

However, there are some limitations put upon the reference desk, Dalrymple cautioned.

"We don't give medical, legal or other professional advice. Someone may have a toothache, and we may have a good idea about what should be done, but we won't say."

Convict McGraw Of Manslaughter

Omaha (AP)—A district jury took only two hours Tuesday to convict Elmer Robert McGraw, 24, of manslaughter in the death of a two-year-old child.

Geraldine Torgrude testified that McGraw had often struck her son, Brian, during the three weeks before Brian died on July 8.

The woman was then living in Omaha with McGraw, a Pierre, S.D., resident.

LAST THREE B47s AT LAFB . . . receive final goodby from base personnel at ceremonies Tuesday on the flight line.

Last B47s Salute, Leave Base For Good

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Three departing B47s, gleaming in a bright December sun, saluted Lincoln Air Force Base personnel and numerous spectators with an impressive formation Tuesday, tipping left wings to mark the final take-off of the bombers which arrived here 11 years ago.

The six engine swept-wing stratojets, scheduled to fly past the control tower one mile apart at 500 feet "to allow a check of the landing gear," were hailed by officers and enlisted men as the huge craft swept by in a low, close pattern.

Long lines of blue-uniformed airmen along the runway saluted the taxiing planes, destined for the "graveyard" at Davis Monthan Air Force Base near Tucson, Ariz. These three B47s will be sealed and stored in the hot, dry climate and could conceivably be used again. However, some of the B47s have been demolished, according to Capt. Philip Doud.

Museum Piece

Col. Raymond J. Bryan, base deputy commander of maintenance, piloted another B47 earlier Tuesday to Wichita, Kan., where it will be used as a museum piece in the city where Boeing built 1,390 B47s.

"It's a sad occasion to realize you have flown your last B47," Capt. Doud commented, but he added that the pilots and crews recognize the older bombers must stand aside for "more modern and more efficient systems."

"Speed and altitude capabilities have outmoded the B47," according to Lt. Col. Louie Franklin who piloted one of the aircraft to Arizona. The inventory of the 13-year-old planes is longer than was originally planned, he noted, even though the ship and its weapons are still effective.

Ceremonies highlighted the day at the Air Force Base, starting with a luncheon and remarks by Wing Commander Col. C. J. Moore, tracing the life of the now defunct 98th Strategic Aerospace Wing.

The bomber squadron, organized in February 1942, came to Lincoln July 25, 1954, following meritorious action in the Korean conflict. The first B47 arrived at the base Dec. 7, 1954.

'Time Hack'

Lt. Col. Franklin led the pre take-off briefing for Tuesday's mission in front of press representatives, complete with the "time hack" (synchronizing watches), flight plans and weather conditions.

Franklin's crew on B47 No. 1943 was not anxious to leave. Lt. Col. Jack M. Youngs, pilot backing up the aircraft commander, and Maj. Elmer E Van Deventer, navigator, and Franklin, all with orders to leave Lincoln by Dec 15, said they liked the city and were finding it hard to move their families away.

Planes 1943, 1927 and 2161 and flight crews received a ceremonial inspection and farewell as a color guard presented the flag and Wing Commander Col. Moore reviewed craft and personnel.

Maintenance crew chief for 1943, Staff Sergeant Jack Polski, reported he had been on the field since 3:30 a.m. reading the craft for its last mission. Capt Doud had brought the B47 in for its final landing late Monday.

The other two flight crews included: 1927, aircraft commander, Lt. Col. Lyle F. Knight, pilot, Capt Otto L. Kovar, and navigator, Capt. Philip G. Loignon; 2161, aircraft commander, Maj. Thomas W. Boles, pilot, Lt Col. Howard T Moore, and navigator, Capt. Edward Morris.

Smooth

Aircraft commanders chosen to perform the final missions were with the 98th wing when it came to Lincoln. Other crew members are senior instructors.

Capt. Norman Hansen, who landed the last B47 at the Lincoln base Monday, reported it was "as smooth as it could be." Expert pilots described the last take-offs as "perfect" too.

"Speed and altitude capabilities have outmoded the B47," according to Lt. Col. Louie Franklin who piloted one of the aircraft to Arizona. The inventory of the 13-year-old planes is longer than was originally planned, he noted, even though the ship and its weapons are still effective.

Ceremonies highlighted the day at the Air Force Base, starting with a luncheon and remarks by Wing Commander Col. C. J. Moore, tracing the life of the now defunct 98th Strategic Aerospace Wing.

The bomber squadron, organized in February 1942, came to Lincoln July 25, 1954, following meritorious action in the Korean conflict. The first B47 arrived at the base Dec. 7, 1954.

'Time Hack'

Lt. Col. Franklin led the pre take-off briefing for Tuesday's mission in front of press representatives, complete with the "time hack" (synchronizing watches), flight plans and weather conditions.

Franklin's crew on B47 No. 1943 was not anxious to leave. Lt. Col. Jack M. Youngs, pilot backing up the aircraft commander, and Maj. Elmer E Van Deventer, navigator, and Franklin, all with orders to leave Lincoln by Dec 15, said they liked the city and were finding it hard to move their families away.

Planes 1943, 1927 and 2161 and flight crews received a ceremonial inspection and farewell as a color guard presented the flag and Wing Commander Col. Moore reviewed craft and personnel.

Maintenance crew chief for 1943, Staff Sergeant Jack Polski, reported he had been on the field since 3:30 a.m. reading the craft for its last mission. Capt Doud had brought the B47 in for its final landing late Monday.

The other two flight crews included: 1927, aircraft commander, Lt. Col. Lyle F. Knight, pilot, Capt Otto L. Kovar, and navigator, Capt. Philip G. Loignon; 2161, aircraft commander, Maj. Thomas W. Boles, pilot, Lt Col. Howard T Moore, and navigator, Capt. Edward Morris.

Smooth

Aircraft commanders chosen to perform the final missions were with the 98th wing when it came to Lincoln. Other crew members are senior instructors.

Capt. Norman Hansen, who landed the last B47 at the Lincoln base Monday, reported it was "as smooth as it could be." Expert pilots described the last take-offs as "perfect" too.

Cause Of Great Catholic-Orthodox Rift Erased

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI proclaimed the final four decrees of the Vatican Ecumenical Council Tuesday, climaxing three years of work with historic decisions for both the Roman Catholic Church and the cause of Christian unity.

The Pope, a slender figure in white at the center of glittering St. Peter's Basilica, told 2,400 bishops that the council's "great purpose has now been achieved."

The bishops, non-Catholic observers and scores of representatives from 90 nations applauded half a minute.

The council's four final decrees, last of 16 issued since the council began in October 1962, comprise a declaration favoring religious liberty, a 36,000-word document on modern world problems, and declarations on priests and missionaries. All were adopted by more than 2,300 of the 2,400 bishops.

Right To Believe

The religious liberty decree, guaranteeing every man the right to believe according to the dictates of his conscience, represents the council's major undertaking in the interest of Christian unity. Protestant observers at the council consider it the most important single document adopted.

In another Christian unity move the Vatican and the Orthodox Church erased an 11th century mutual excommunication.

Pope Paul in St. Peter's and Orthodox Patriarch Anthenagoras in St. George's Cathedral in Istanbul, made simultaneous declarations which removed the excommunications issued in 1054.

Byzantine Capital

At the time legates sent by Pope Leo IX to Istanbul, then called Byzantium, excommunicated the patriarch there, Michael Caerularius. He reacted by declaring the same action on his excommunicators. The rupture gradually widened from then on.

Pope Paul and the chief delegate sent from Istanbul — Metropolitan Meliton of Heliopolis — embraced after the joint statement was read.

Their gesture brought new waves of applause through the basilica. The Pope then made the statement an official papal act by phrasing it into an apostolic brief.

State Of Vitality

In an address to the bishops, Pope Paul said:

"If quite a few questions raised during the course of the council itself still wait appropriate answers, this shows that its labors are now coming to a close, not out of weariness but in a state of vitality . . .

"In the postconciliar period this vitality will apply, God willing, its generous and well-regulated energies to the study of such questions."

Such questions include birth control and mixed marriage between Catholics and non-Catholics.

The modern world problems decree upholds traditional church teachings against contraceptive devices, but opens the way for possible change by the Pope after a special commission of experts reports to him on the matter.

Into The World

The Pope talked at length about what he said was Catholicism's desire to reach out into the world and bring God to contemporary man.

After the religious freedom decree and the joint Vatican-Istanbul statement, the dramatic close of the four-hour ceremony was caught up in the Christian unity spirit.

The Pope and the bishops recited the Lord's Prayer aloud together — and many of the 99 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox observers stood and joined in.

The modern world problems decree's key sections speak of nuclear warfare, birth control and atheism.

Self-Defense

It says nations cannot be denied the right to legitimate self-defense, while calling nuclear stockpiling a danger for the world. It sees need for progressive, controlled and guaranteed disarmament.

On birth control, the decree reminds Catholics they cannot use methods their church forbids. But it stresses conjugal love along with childbearing in the aims of marriage and says "further diligent study is still needed" in the field of contraception, leaving the way open for possible future change in the church's stand.

The document rejects racial, social and religious discrimination and encourages many of the common activities of modern man — labor unions, efforts to overcome poverty and hunger, projects for helping underdeveloped nations toward prosperity.

Orthodox Acclaim Pope's Emissary

Istanbul (UPI)—The centuries-long breach between the Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic churches ended Tuesday when their spiritual leaders abrogated the mutual excommunications decreed by the two faiths in 1054.

About 1,000 worshipers packed Istanbul's tiny patriarchal Cathedral of St. George to hear Patriarch Athenagoras annul the excommunication and eliminate one of the major obstacles to possible reunification between the Eastern and Western Catholic rites.

A similar ceremony was held by Pope Paul VI in Vatican City.

Lawrence Cardinal Joseph Shehan of Baltimore, Md., represented the Roman Catholic pontiff at the ceremony in the cathedral beside Istanbul's famed harbor of the Golden Horn. He received a tumultuous welcome from the Orthodox crowd.

Arm-In-Arm

When the small whitehaired cardinal left the cathedral arm-in-arm with the towering, bearded patriarch after the excommunication was lifted, men, women and children pressed forward to kiss his ring.

Another crowd of 500, unable to push into the jammed cathedral to watch the ceremony, applauded loudly and shouted, "Worthy! Worthy!" in Greek as the cardinal pronounced a benediction from the balcony of the patriarchal apartment.

The applause rose to a crescendo when Patriarch Athenagoras leaned over and kissed the cardinal twice on each cheek.

"They don't want you to leave," the patriarch told the Roman Catholic prelate as the crowd swelled by those leaving the cathedral massed below the balcony and applauded.

Biggest Welcome

"I've never received such a warm, enthusiastic welcome in all my life," Cardinal Shehan said later. "I am deeply moved and deeply impressed by the whole proceedings.

"This emphasizes in a very striking manner the closeness and the friendship between Pope Paul and the patriarch. It gives us so much hope for the future and so much hope that ultimately our two churches will be reunited," he said.

The cardinal said the patriarch told him: "This is a great day for our Lord. We are grateful to Him and to Pope Paul who has done everything to prepare for this day."

Urgent Probe Of Boost In Interest Rate Called

Washington (AP) — An urgent congressional inquiry was called Tuesday into the Federal Reserve Board's raising of the ceiling on interest rates, and all seven board members were summoned to testify. Hearings will start Monday.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the Senate-House Economic Committee, announcing the investigation, said the members he conferred with "believe an immediate public review is essential."

Meanwhile, state banks were given the green light by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp to pay the higher rates on time deposits authorized by the board, but the FDIC urged "utmost caution" by the banks.

FDIC Chairman K. A. Randall said, "Banks and money market centers" may feel undue pressure to put the higher 5½% rates into effect "but smaller banks should be under no compulsion to follow suit because of the different circumstances under which they operate."

The stock market, which suffered heavy losses triggered by the discount rate increase, made a smashing comeback Tuesday. Big gains were made on many issues. Many brokers had said they consider Monday's massive early selloff only a temporary reaction.

The board authorized Sunday a raise in the rate on time deposits of more than 30 days from 4½ to 5½%. And it authorized an increase from 4 to 4½% in the discount rate — the interest the 12 regional Federal Reserve Banks charge on loans to member commercial banks.

Patman, who long has been at odds on economic policy with FRB Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr., already had blasted the board's decision, which was made in face of stiff objections by some other financial experts in Congress and President Johnson.

Humphrey Denies Inflation Is Threat

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey challenged Tuesday the Federal Reserve Board's claim that inflation is threatening the nation's booming economy.

Humphrey accused the board of failing to coordinate its policies with the rest of the government when it raised the bank discount rate on Sunday. He hinted that the administration might have to revise its taxing and spending plans to take account of the reserve board action.

In boosting the discount rate from 4 to 4.5%, the board said it was trying to dampen mounting demands on banks for more loans that "might add to inflationary pressures."

No Threat

But Humphrey said: "As of today, there is no immediate threat of inflation." He told the Institute of Life Insurance in New York that "most economic indicators point strongly to continued price stability." He cited four:

—Labor costs-per-unit of output are no higher than a year ago and below what they were five years ago.

—The supply of manpower and machinery "is still sufficient to meet our demands."

—Wage negotiations in most major industries have been completed and have set "reasonable wage patterns" for the months ahead.

—Training and manpower programs are relieving the "pressures" on the labor force, while foreign competition is helping to hold down U.S. prices.

The administration's wage-price guidelines came under fire from Capitol Hill.

Three Republican House members said the time had come for Congress to examine the "validity" of the wage-price guidelines.

The three—Reps. Thomas Curtis of Missouri, William Widnall of New Jersey and Robert Ellsworth of Kansas—charged that President Johnson had used the guidelines "to justify capricious economic interventionism in private economic decision-making."

The guidelines, established by the President's Council on Economic Advisers, represent the wage and price increases that the government thinks can be accommodated without leading to inflation.

AFL-CIO Proposal

In San Francisco, the AFL-CIO's chief economist said Tuesday the Johnson administration's guidepost for noninflationary wage settlements should be increased form 3.2 to 3.5% of payroll.

Federation Research Director Nathaniel Goldfinger said revised government figures on the economy and an increase in productivity should be reflected in a higher guideline.

Such a revision is being considered by the President's council and may be disclosed in President Johnson's economic report to Congress next month.

The AFL-CIO high command, meantime, called for sharp stepups in wage increases and higher federal spending to bring the nation closer to full employment.

It discounted fears of inflation voiced by the Federal Reserve Board and other economic analysts in a report prepared for the labor organization's 10th anniversary convention opening Thursday.

Reds Losing Ground In Near East

Beirut, Lebanon (AP)—Communism, which has suffered heavy blows in Indonesia, Africa and other parts of the world in recent months, is losing ground in the Middle East.

The Communist Party lost its last official foothold in the Arab world when it was outlawed in the Sudan last month. The Communist Party is now illegal in every Arab country.

Despite the popular Western impression that the Arab world is pro-communist—an impression magnified out of proportion by the sometimes spectacular socialist experiments of Egypt, Syria and Iraq—the Arabs have always been wary of communism.

Twelve of the 13 Arab states maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and several of them recognize Communist China.

Example of 'Doublethink'

But the Arab attitude toward communism has been a good example of "doublethink" since President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt turned to the communists for military aid and opened the Arab world to communism 10 years ago.

Communism was fine, some Arabs apparently felt, as a political theory or doctrine, and as a wedge against the West. They found some aspects of socialism useful, too, at home.

But the Communist Party as a branch of world communism was always anathema to Arab leaders.

Edging Away

The last few months have seen Egypt, Syria and Iraq edging even further away from the political doctrines of the left.

Early this year the Egyptian Communist Party, an underground organization even then, announced its own dissolution.

In Syria the communist underground is complaining the government has resumed persecution of the communists and that a number of communists have been arrested in the Jezira district.

In Iraq, President Abdel Salam Aref and his new premier, Abdel Rahman Bazzaz, now frequently denounce Marxism.

Much of the rest of the Arab world has never been warm to communism.

New Concept Of Water Development Revealed

McCook (AP)—Growing problems of drought and floods are bringing the nation face to face with the necessity of transferring water from one river basin to another, the chief of Army Engineers said Tuesday night.

Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy declared "we have emerging, before we are quite ready to deal with it, a new concept of water resources development which will have far-reaching consequences, directly or indirectly, in virtually every part of the nation."

In a speech to the Republican Valley Conservation Association, Gen. Cassidy said "problems caused both by too much water and too little water are growing greater all the time."

During 1965, he said, damages from floods including those in the Upper Mississippi, the South Platte and Upper Arkansas basins amounted to three-quarters of a billion dollars.

Water Shortages

"On the other side of the coin," Gen. Cassidy added, "almost the entire Northeastern and Middle Atlantic sections of our country suffered severe hardships from the effects of prolonged water shortages."

Cassidy said an explosive growth of a population which is becoming more and more concentrated in great urban areas and increasingly dependent upon industrialization, is making rapidly expanding demands on available water.

In 35 years, he said, the water demand is expected to triple.

"At the same time, the need for additional flood protection continues to grow," the general continued.

"The storage of flood flows in reservoir projects is the key function in water resources development."

Gen. Cassidy declared the big problem is to get all public and private agencies in the water resources field and all classes of water users "to march in step toward well-defined objectives conceived in the national interest."

He declared "we do not need a water czar" but said it has become increasingly obvious that tomorrow's water problem solutions will not be found exclusively through today's basin-wide approach.

"We shall therefore be faced with the necessity for interbasin transfers," presumably "moving water from 'surplus' areas to areas of shortage."

Gen. Cassidy said a study of the problems involved will begin in the East soon and should begin in the West and Midwest before too long.

Flames Fatal To Noel Strait

McCool Junction (AP)—Noel Strait, 69, died in a fire at his home shortly before midnight Monday.

Because of a lung condition, Mr. Strait slept in a chair. His wife awoke to find the house filled with smoke.

Mr. Strait's burned body was found slumped in a charred chair. Firemen found another burned chair nearby.

Smoke damage to the house was extensive. Mrs. Strait was in satisfactory condition in a hospital in nearby York Tuesday.

Robbery Charge Readied Against Alvin Konvalin

Omaha (AP) — Deputy Douglas County Atty. Elizabeth Pittman said Tuesday that a robbery charge will be filed Wednesday against Alvin George Konvalin of Omaha and Lincoln.

Konvalin will be charged with the robbery of the Lamplighter Inn in Omaha on Monday morning.

He fled from Omaha, eluding officers in a high speed chase, but was sighted by Lincoln police Monday night in Lincoln and this time could not get away.

Lincoln police, State Safety Patrol troopers and Lancaster County sheriff's officers nabbed Konvalin when a tire on Konvalin's car blew out.

Thompson Is Re-Elected By Water Group

McCook (AP)—All officers of the Republican Valley Conservation Association, headed by Don Thompson of McCook, were re-elected Tuesday at the annual meeting of the association which reached its 25th birthday this year.

Thompson

Annette W. Trimble of McCook was named to the new post of executive secretary.

More than 100 persons attended the luncheon meeting at which Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen, a Democrat, paid tribute to the organization.

Sorensen, bringing with him the greetings of Gov. Frank Morrison, a former McCook resident, said he hoped the RVCA would request the state governments of Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska for a new study of the soil and water resources of the area.

Sen. Curtis credited the RVCA with leading the nation in carrying out a program of flood control, irrigation and soil conservation.

Curtis said that when the RVCA began its work "the need for flood control was so bad in the Republican Valley that it was actually a choice of protection or abandonment."

Curtis paid tribute to the founders, leaders and supporters of the RVCA including deceased leaders such as Harry Strunk, M. O. (Bud) Ryan, Clyde Paine, and others.

Ukulele Aids 2nd Graders With Lessons

Omaha (AP) — They're strummin' out lessons in readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic to the tune of a ukulele in Miss Mary Morrow's second grade class.

Ask the teacher "What's the pitch?" and she answers readily: "It provides good motivation," plunking what she describes as an ordinary baritone uke.

The uke works wonders, says the attractive 22-year-old instructor in her first year at Oakdale School on the western fringe of Omaha.

She strummed out some instruction in science and 28 little voices chimed in: "Beep! Beep! Here comes the satellite. Around the earth it goes. Beep! Beep! and that's how science grows."

How about arithmetic?

"You put a little tune on 'How much are two plus two?, And the children sing back in tune: 'Two plus two equals four.' "

Results Surprising

"It's surprising," the University of Nebraska graduate said, "how quickly they pick up things this way. The more fun, the better they learn. We have the ukulele out an average of about once each day."

Miss Morrow is frank that she's no expert on the uke; she plays by ear. She introduced the instrument as a teaching aid experiment and found it popular from the first day.

STEVE DIETRICH

Memorial To Youth Reflects High Score With Community

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber—The family of a teenage heart victim never able to score from the field is discovering just how high he scored with his community otherwise.

A memorial fund for Steve Dietrich, who succumbed after open heart surgery, has surpassed $2,100 in less than three months. The total assures the purchase of a football-baseball scoreboard—appropriate for the sports-lover who lettered only as student manager.

"PeeWee—he was that to everyone—spent his last Sunday here with the eight and 10-year-olds he had organized into a football league," recalled his mother, Mrs. Henry Dietrich. "He would have been a real athlete, except for his health, because he had such a will to compete."

Two older brothers, Dan and Paul, have been Wilber team regulars the past several seasons. From 13-year-old Donna to Sharon, now a teacher in Cheyenne, all five have gained the town's respect as waiters in their parents' restaurant.

Separate Church Fund

Irvin Novak, one of three Rotarians handling the memorial, noted that a separate fund was nearing $600 at the First Lutheran Church. Some 300 persons contributed to the community fund, sponsored also by Steve Pospisil and Milo Jelinek.

The 15-year-old's junior class alone gave $88, the entire junior-senior high school $240. There was no real solicitation beyond the weekly reports published in The Wilber Republican.

"We never asked anyone for a dime," observed Novak, vice president of the Saline State Bank. "It's a fine tribute to a fine boy and a fine family."

Boy Is Canned; Escapes Injury

Alliance, Ohio (AP) — Billy Youmans got canned. But he didn't get hurt.

Billy, 19 months old, was playing at home Monday when he somehow managed to get a three-pound coffee can jammed down over his head. It lodged just atop his nose.

Billy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Youmans of nearby Sebring was able to breathe.

He was taken to a hospital where an orderly, Donald Hamilin, performed "surgery," using tin snips to clip the can off.

"He was a real sport and hardly whimpered," reported Mrs. Phoebe Yanney, secretary to the hospital administrator.

Five Persons Die In Crash

Green River, Wyo. (AP)—Five persons died in a head-on collision 12 miles west of Green River Tuesday night.

The highway patrol said Mrs. Arlene Rurh McKenna was driving an eastbound car, apparently from Spokane, Wash., to Omaha, Neb., when it and a car driven by Edward J. Murphy, 54, of Rawlins, Wyo., collided.

Mrs. McKenna and her daughters, Patricia K., 8, and Vickey, 15, and Murphy and his wife Jeanette, 52, were killed.

Mrs. McKenna's husband was following his family in another car when the accident occurred. He was taken to a Rock Springs hospital for treatment of shock.

Highway Patrol Sgt. Byron Bridger said the cars collided on a dry, straight section of U.S. 30.

11-Year-Old Accidentally Shoots Woman, 23, In Head

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

'I didn't know the gun was loaded," an 11-year-old boy tearfully told police after he shot a 23-year-old woman in the head with a .22 caliber rifle early Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Guadalupe F. Martinez, 401 So. 1st, was in "fairly good condition" early Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital following the shooting. She still had a .22 caliber slug in her head, authorities said.

The first hours after the shooting it appeared as if the young woman might be in grave danger of losing her life " but hospital authorities said she came through the critical first hours and was "responding well to treatment early Wednesday morning.

No Fight

"There was no fight or foul play—nothing of that nature involved in this shooting," Police Capt. Robert Butcher said, "It was strictly an accident."

Marcus F. Gonzalez, 11, of 349 So. 1st playfully pointed a rifle at the head of Mrs. Martinez in the bedroom of the Gonzalez home, pulled the trigger, and said "bang." The gun discharged.

The .22 caliber "short" slug entered her head just above her left ear. Doctors are still deciding if surgery will be attempted to remove the bullet.

"I didn't know that gun was loaded," young Gonzalez kept repeating to police. "I just didn't know it."

Gonzalez' mother, Mrs. Joseph Gonzalez, said Marcus and her two other children were playing in the bedroom of their home "chasing cats." Mrs. Martinez, who was visiting the Gonzalez home with her husband, entered the bedroom to play with the children.

Picked up Rifle

"Marcus picked up a rifle which was kept behind a closet door," Mrs. Gonzalez said, "and playfully pointed it at her. Then it happened."

Officer Paul Merritt, who investigated the shooting said, "None of the Gonzalez family could explain why or how that rifle happened to be loaded. It's just another case of a gun that 'wasn't loaded' that shot somebody."

Vatican Council Issues Are Called Inane, Ridiculous

Ithaca, N.Y. (AP)—A Presbyterian minister said Tuesday the Vatican Ecumenical Council had concerned itself largely with "inane, stupid, ridiculous issues."

The Rev. Mr. John Heidbrink of Nyack, director of church relations for the Fellowship of Reconciliation, decried the time spent on issues that he said should be obvious to all without such formal deliberation.

"It is almost laughable that so many men spent so long a time trying to find out who was responsible for the death of Jesus Christ when most of the world has moved on to larger and more important issues," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Heidbrink commented at the closing session of a four-day conference on religion and morality at Cornell University.

Work On NU Dorm Halted By Walkout

Construction of a new woman's dormitory at the University of Nebraska was halted Tuesday by a strike.

Noel Smith, construction engineer at the University, said equipment operating engineers were on strike against Copeland Construction Co. of Kansas City, Mo.

Copeland is installing built-in furniture at the new dorm at 17th and Vine, Smith said.

Jerry Copeland, co-partner in the firm, declined comment on the strike. Labor representatives could not be reached.

All other crafts honored the equipment operators' picket line Tuesday and work came to a standstill.

New York (UPI) — The American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., Tuesday announced plans to merge with International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation.

The merger, subject to the approval of stockholders of both corporations and the Federal Communications Commission, will make ABC a separate subsidiary of ITT.

New Concept Of Water Development Revealed

McCook (AP)—Growing problems of drought and floods are bringing the nation face to face with the necessity of transferring water from one river basin to another, the chief of Army Engineers said Tuesday night.

Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy declared "we have emerging, before we are quite ready to deal with it, a new concept of water resources development which will have far-reaching consequences, directly or indirectly, in virtually every part of the nation."

In a speech to the Republican Valley Conservation Association, Gen. Cassidy said "problems caused both by too much water and too little water are growing greater all the time."

During 1965, he said, damages from floods including those in the Upper Mississippi, the South Platte and Upper Arkansas basins amounted to three-quarters of a billion dollars.

Water Shortages

"On the other side of the coin," Gen. Cassidy added, "almost the entire Northeastern and Middle Atlantic sections of our country suffered severe hardships from the effects of prolonged water shortages."

Cassidy said an explosive growth of a population which is becoming more and more concentrated in great urban areas and increasingly dependent upon industrialization, is making rapidly expanding demands on available water.

In 35 years, he said, the water demand is expected to triple.

"At the same time, the need for additional flood protection continues to grow," the general continued.

"The storage of flood flows in reservoir projects is the key function in water resources development."

Gen. Cassidy declared the big problem is to get all public and private agencies in the water resources field and all classes of water users "to march in step toward well-defined objectives conceived in the national interest."

He declared "we do not need a water czar" but said it has become increasingly obvious that tomorrow's water problem solutions will not be found exclusively through today's basin-wide approach.

"We shall therefore be faced with the necessity for interbasin transfers," presumably "moving water from 'surplus' areas to areas of shortage."

Gen. Cassidy said a study of the problems involved will begin in the East soon and should begin in the West and Midwest before too long.

Flames Fatal To Noel Strait

McCool Junction (AP)—Noel Strait, 69, died in a fire at his home shortly before midnight Monday.

Because of a lung condition, Mr. Strait slept in a chair. His wife awoke to find the house filled with smoke.

Mr. Strait's burned body was found slumped in a charred chair. Firemen found another burned chair nearby.

Smoke damage to the house was extensive. Mrs. Strait was in satisfactory condition in a hospital in nearby York Tuesday.

Robbery Charge Readied Against Alvin Konvalin

Omaha (AP) — Deputy Douglas County Atty. Elizabeth Pittman said Tuesday that a robbery charge will be filed Wednesday against Alvin George Konvalin of Omaha and Lincoln.

Konvalin will be charged with the robbery of the Lamplighter Inn in Omaha on Monday morning.

He fled from Omaha, eluding officers in a high speed chase, but was sighted by Lincoln police Monday night in Lincoln and this time could not get away.

Lincoln police, State Safety Patrol troopers and Lancaster County sheriff's officers nabbed Konvalin when a tire on Konvalin's car blew out.

Thompson Is Re-Elected By Water Group

McCook (AP)—All officers of the Republican Valley Conservation Association, headed by Don Thompson of McCook, were re-elected Tuesday at the annual meeting of the association which reached its 25th birthday this year.

Thompson

Annette W. Trimble of McCook was named to the new post of executive secretary.

More than 100 persons attended the luncheon meeting at which Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen, a Democrat, paid tribute to the organization.

Sorensen, bringing with him the greetings of Gov. Frank Morrison, a former McCook resident, said he hoped the RVCA would request the state governments of Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska for a new study of the soil and water resources of the area.

Sen. Curtis credited the RVCA with leading the nation in carrying out a program of flood control, irrigation and soil conservation.

Curtis said that when the RVCA began its work "the need for flood control was so bad in the Republican Valley that it was actually a choice of protection or abandonment."

Curtis paid tribute to the founders, leaders and supporters of the RVCA including deceased leaders such as Harry Strunk, M. O. (Bud) Ryan, Clyde Paine, and others.

Clash At City Hall

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Judging from reports on this week's meeting between the mayor and City Council, things are not all sweetness and light at the City Hall. But before we get in too much of a dither over the situation, we ought to consider some of the facts. The meeting that sparked the fireworks was one occasioned by a request from Councilman John Mason for a detailed report from the city finance department on expenditures for the fiscal year 1964-65.

It appears as though Mason were interested in seeing if spending by the city were in accordance with City Council appropriations. From Mayor Dean Petersen came the statement that the meeting represented "idle curiosity" on the part of Mason. Naturally, this didn't sit too well with the councilman who stood on his city charter rights to have such information. In this the councilman is technically correct. One section of the city charter states: "The finance director shall report to the council annually, and at such other times as may be required by the council, a full and detailed account of the city's financial condition and of all receipts and disbursements during the year or other period concerned."

A Stand On Rights

Reportedly, Finance Director James Mallon was reluctant to provide the information requested by Mason. This, however, was at a time when the mayor was absent through illness and if the council or even Mason alone had insisted upon receiving, the information, Mallon undoubtedly would have provided it at that time.

However, there are two further questions here. Mason is a member of the council but does not constitute the council. This might be the key to improvement of relationships that have, perhaps, become a bit strained.

It might be better if any council member made his or her requests of the administration through the City Council itself. Rather than individual council member request, the administrators of city government would then face formal City Council requests. This could eliminate excessive requests for information by individual members of the council. Councilman Mason made a point of his rights as a member of the City Council but, technically, he might be on thin ice. His rights would seem to stem more from his being a collective part of the council as a whole. What he can demand and get from the administration of the city as an individual councilman might be quite a debatable question.

On the other hand, the mayor and the rest of the administration should be receptive to requests for information on the part of anyone, particularly a member of the City Council. Council members should be careful that they do not make a nuisance of themselves and should not use the influence of this position for the purpose of gaining for themselves public attention. Mason seems to be held by some as a little suspect in this regard. One often hears it rumored that Mason must be intending to run for mayor because of all the issues he raises and the questions he asks. His request for financial information was unusual unless he had some suspicions he has yet said nothing about.

Also, it was Mason who raised the gambling issue recently and initiated a move to get the city to abandon its sale of gasoline to the public through the Municipal Gas Station at 19th and Q. But again, Mason as an attorney would surely point to this as circumstantial evidence in any effort to tag him with publicity seeking.

He may simply be sincerely interested in affairs of the city and, certainly, the best way to find out what is going on is to ask questions. Too, the City Council under our new form of government is relieved of much of the detail that once bogged it down. This allows the council more time, if it wants to take it, to pursue other things.

Thus, a councilman has the time if he wants to look at operations of the city that might not present themselves in the normal course of events. As to finances, the charter is pretty specific. The mayor can authorize transfers of funds within departments but not between departments. The latter requires a resolution by the City Council. But if the council has no information on details of appropriations and expenditures, it can hardly tell whether this requirement of the charter is being met. It doesn't hurt to make sure of this now and then even if the effort is largely a fishing expidition. Despite this week's fireworks, the financial report made to the council was an educational process that benefited all concerned.

Requirements Of Charter

Finally, our new form of government is still that — new. It is only a little more than two years old and a few rough spots are bound to show up now and then. Until the practical as well as technical areas of responsibilities and authorities are settled by experience, a few flareups can be expected and a few tempers will become frayed. But the system to date has shown a lot more promise than failure.

Johnsons To Tone Down Social Life

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is almost certain to curtail the White House social season when he returns to Washington after Christmas.

With casualties in Viet Nam running high, the President doesn't believe it's a good idea to put the White House in the position of giving gay parties.

The dinner for Princess Margaret had been scheduled weeks in advance, and no one knew that the Viet Nam fighting was going to be disastrous that week. Nevertheless some people got a sour reaction from the festivities.

The impression has prevailed in Washington social circles that the Johnsons have been trying to emulate the Kennedys society-wise. Jackie Kennedy had a lot of New York friends whom she imported for her gayest parties, and there were several occasions when they danced the twist all night. Breakfast was served about 5 a.m.

The Johnsons have not imported New York's cafe society nor have they danced all night. A good many of the parties have entertained Congress and were highly successful as evidenced by the record number of bills passed by the President at the last session.

But with coffins and hospital planes now coming back from Saigon, White House dinners will be on a much more modest scale and dancing will probably be cut out entirely.

If and when Secretary of Defense McNamara moves over to the White House to become assistant president, replacing McGeorge Bundy, the man who will replace him in the Pentagon is Cyrus R. Vance, now deputy secretary of defense.

Vance is one of "Lyndon's boys," trained in the Senate when LBJ was chairman of the Armed Services Special Preparedness Committee, formed after the first Russian Sputnik was launched, for the purpose of goading the Eisenhower administration into more activity in outer space.

Both Johnson and Vance did a good job. Vance had come down from the Wall Street law firm of Simpson, Thacher and Bartlett, recommended by another member of the firm, Eddie Weisl, the New Yorker closest to LBJ.

For three years they goaded Ike for falling behind in the space and missile race, and John F. Kennedy ran for president partly on this platform—only to have Bob McNamara later admit that we weren't behind in missiles after all. We were behind in satellites and probably still are.

Immediately after Kennedy was elected, Vice President Johnson asked him to appoint Cyrus Vance as general counsel of the Defense Department, and Vance has been moved up regularly ever since. He knows the Defense Department as well as his chief, Bob McNamara, but won't be as tough on the brass hats.

HEW Faces Manpower Problem

WASHINGTON—It is quite a jump to go from the director of an organization with 35 employes to one that will soon have 94,000. That is what happened to John W. Gardner when President Johnson persuaded him to leave the Carnegie Foundation to be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW was a giant, running the biggest insurance business in the world among a myriad other enterprises, before the last session of Congress piled on the load. Of the cornucopia of laws turned out in the year now ending, 22 assign new tasks or broaden responsibilities already in HEW. One is Medicare with the extraordinary difficulties it presents in free medical service even though it is limited to citizens over 65.

One of the ablest men recruited by the President for his administration, Gardner is now wrestling with his own recruiting problem. He must fill 11 or 12 top jobs and he is finding that it takes on the average three weeks to get the man he wants and all too often he finds the No. 1 candidate slipping out of the net.

His troubles illustrate the striking contrast between the first New Deal of the early thirties and what is in effect a new deal. In the thirties brains were on the bargain counter. The universities were half empty and college salaries were meager. Bright young men and women were eager to come to Washington with ideas and with zeal.

Today, as Gardner is discovering, the exact reverse is true. Full professors in the more distinguished universities where competition is keen get $20,000 or $22,000 a year, which compares with $27,000 for an assistant secretaryship in government. But at the top level of the academic community, in the past a fertile source of brains and experience for government service, the salary differential is only part of the story.

Presidents, deans and even full professors get perquisites that enhance the job beyond money income subject to high tax rates. A free house, an expense allowance, generous travel grants, foundation money to pursue individual studies, these are some of the reasons the ablest men are reluctant to leave the Groves of Academe for the hubble bubble of Washington. Then, too, they know they will work twice as long and perhaps twice as hard in a government job as in the university.

The recruiting problem at the top level is bound to grow tougher in a booming economy and not in HEW alone by any means. The widely heralded departure of McGeorge Bundy, who left a deanship at Harvard to take a key advisory post under Kennedy, presents the White House with a vacancy difficult to fill. Bundy reportedly will head the Ford Foundation at a salary of $75,000 a year, a generous expense account and, incidentally, with a potential of wide influence over the academic community in the distribution of some $250 million of largess a year.

One of the difficulties is the furious pace of government at the top in the Kennedy administration and now under President Johnson. To put it mildly the President's work habits are erratic and he seems to have no consideration for the sensibilities or the mere endurance of his associates. One of the faithful expressed his private doubt in a low moment:

"At times we can't help feeling, as Milton put it, that we are 'eyeless in Gaza with the slaves at the mill.'"

The demands on a government servant in a policy-determining post increase by a geometric ratio as the problems of government increase. One of the posts Gardner must fill is commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration. The sensitivities of a highly profitable industry, of the public and of Congress are acute in this area. And as Morton Mintz has shown in his explosive book, "The Therapeutic Nightmare," a moribund and timid FDA can mean disasters in an era when so-called miracle drugs are touted as cure-alls.

In filling political appointments, tenure is a factor. A full professor in a leading university has life tenure which cannot be said of an assistant secretary. There is, too, a carry-over of the attitude that a bureaucrat is somehow a willful malingerer worming his way into government to eat up the taxpayer's money. One of the ablest bureaucrats who over the years with one secretary and another kept HEW running, Rufus E. Miles, Jr., assistant for administration, has just elected to take early retirement and a lectureship at Princeton University. This is another vacancy Gardner will find hard to fill since it means 11- or 12-hour days, six days a week.

Gardner's book, "Excellence: Can We Be Equal And Excellent Too?," engaged the President's interest and was one of the reasons he recruited the secretary, who had a wealth of experience in teaching, government and in foundations. Gardner can write a new chapter on the difficulties of achieving excellence at the top level of his vast domain when the penalties of government service seem to outweigh the rewards.

Watts Report Eye-Opener

The report of the McCone Commission to Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown of California on the Watts riots of this summer is a sobering piece of testimony. The report can be boiled down to one thing—the existence of a disadvantaged group and the demand that their situation be improved.

The group, of course, is the Negro population of Watts, a suburb just south of downtown Los Angeles. The report shows the riot there, which took 34 lives and claimed $40 million in property damage, was the product of human inequality and injustice.

Whether imagined or real in all instances, the discrimination that has been practiced upon the Negro in Watts has produced resentments that were bound to lead to violence. This is the lesson we must learn, not just so far as the Negro in the United States is concerned, but in regard to the entire world.

We no longer have any choice or any more time to waste in elimination of the disparities that exist among men. The disadvantaged of the world, including the Negro minorities of this nation, are too aware of what has happened to them for us to expect further resignation to an unkind and unjust fate.

The McCone Report made it plain that we either eliminate the social and economic barriers to progress that face these minorities or we will suffer the consequences. The consequences will be violence even in excess of that which wracked the community of Watts last summer.

The alternative calls for rapid and costly action but there should be little real question in the minds of the American people as to pursuit of this alternative. Those who think that discrimination will never again be even quietly countenanced are blind to the realities of their time.

Say Program Is Wrong

We have always thought the 4-H club baby beef program was considered beyond reproach.

Many farm boys and girls spend half the year feeding and petting their special charges and then comes the big auctions. Some boy or girl's pet steer brings a price of anywhere from $10,000 to $40,000. And after that there are speeches about the nobility of farming and stories of the fortunate winner planning to use the money for an education taking him or her off the farm forever. And the least of us feel that the kids could not be engaged in a more worthy spare time pursuit.

Well we have news. Iowa livestock leaders are shooting the program full of holes and demanding change

They say it is teaching the wrong lessons. The steers may be lovingly but not properly fed. Their average gain is from 1.5 pounds to pounds a day which is not nearly enough. Modern feeding methods will do much better and the kids should be learning more about that.

There is too much emphasis on championships and an exorbitant payoff for the prize winners. The kids should be learning more about average prices of average steers for that's what they will deal with after they become too old for 4-H.

Then the competing steers are not fed to market specifications. The seven or eight hundred pound steers they are showing weigh about what the average steer should weight when it goes into the feed lot.

The Iowa leaders are demanding a more realistic program.

A Reformed Company

This being the Christmas season it is time to get out Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol and renew our acquaintances with Tiny Tim and with Scrooge and Marley. Marley, of course, only figures in the tale by being dead. But the rest of the characters do enough to make us all soft hearted and enter the Christmas holiday with a spirit of generosity.

The story is touching enough to make the hardest hearted feel compelled to go out and cure someone's broken leg and get him back up jumping joyfully with the Pepsi generation. But perhaps that is stretching it a bit. There was a time when love and affection was all that was needed to make a happy family. Now we live in a more complex time and our evening viewing tells us that the way to familial joy is for everyone in the family to have his own bottle of deodorant, or to take pills that have not one but three pain killing ingredients—that or take better care of one's lower tract, or feed one's family with a certain brand of coffee.

But that is all aside from the point. The most exciting thing about present day Christmas goodwill comes with the knowledge that the current firm of Scrooge and Marley is utterly reformed. The company of that name now does business in New York City. It writes adds, commercials, contributes magazine articles and reviews childrens books. Its attitude is a far cry from the Scrooge and Marley of Dickens. And what is more Marley is not dead.

We learn that the company will give its help Christmas bonus equal to two weeks pay, without coercion. The world does get a little better every year.

Astros Will Sleep Third Of Time Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY—Could you drop off into a restful sleep if you were hurtling through space at 17,500 m.p.h. and about 150 miles above the earth?

Well, it can be done, as proven by astronauts and cosmonauts. Now the knack is to be given a sterner test. NASA will insist that Astronauts Frank Borman and Jim Lovell get at least eight hours of shuteye out of each 24 they spend aloft. The schedule calls for them to stay up two full weeks.

That means that they'll doze through about 69 trips around the world, or nearly five days of their 14 in space.

Wonder if NASA has looked into the matter of snoring? Suppose one guy is a nocturnal bugler. How would you like to be cooped up with a snorer for 14 days and nights in a capsule with less move-around room than a phone booth? As flights grow longer, one tends to shudder at the problems involved in sending a couple of men to as comparatively adjacent a planet as Mars. With present know-how that would take the better part of a year and a half for the roundtrip, in a cramped vehicle which up to now has little in the way of creature comforts: No stove, refrigerator, no rugs to sweep the debris under and, alas, no plumbing.

So far, NASA has been darned adept at matching the personalities of the Gemini crews. They have come back tired, unshaven, chafed, dehydrated, slightly de-calciumized, somewhat dizzy and in one or two cases seasick from their brief stay in the water awaiting pickup. But, for all that, they have been jolly, articulate, and just like we've come to expect them to be: Manly, modest, magical.

But the law of averages requires that if we keep putting up more men in space, and more men in cramped quarters, we're going to be treated to the unusual sound of arguments from on high and maybe the sound of a fight in space. Years ago we had a very small weather group of men shivering on T-3, a 10-square-mile fresh water ice island that was circling the North Pole with a majestic resolution that pushed aside mountains of Arctic ocean ice. They shared and endured the vilest weather on the planet, winds that threatened to blow them away, hardships too great for even Eskimo companionship, patriotic togetherness beyond belief.

So the Air Force guy got into a fistfight with the Navy guy, on top of the world. Argument over the relative merits of the B-36 and the U.S.S. Missouri — or Navy coffee over Air Force salted peanuts.

☆ ☆ ☆

Col. Borman's head is wired, if that's the term, to tell ground stations he's dreaming during his slumber period. Jim McDivitt dreamed he had the mumps and presumably gave them to Ed White, who rode shotgun on that mission.

It's out of this world in more ways than one. But let's hope Col. Borman doesn't dream himself and pal into a case of measles.

Cause And Effect

Hastings, Neb.

Vandalism is the most important subject of the last 20 years because it aids and abets conformity and a steady increase in crime of all descriptions, and our prison population. The most shocking fact is that 75% of it is generated in the high school and college age brackets, and because of careless or unsuspecting and over-indulgent parents and school management, with only one eye and ear open. They do not have the students' respect because they do not earn it.

I have had 60 years of experience on school boards and other boards, and I think I know why they succeed or fail. Our county high school got so low both morally and educationally that many of the girl students were taken out. The school board all resigned and the faculty was let go and none hired for the coming year. I was asked to take over the job of re-establishing the school, which I did on my own terms, and I got the full cooperation of all concerned. I saw that they all understood all our rules, and at the end of our year we could meet all competition, with our pupils acting like ladies and gentlemen, proud of themselves and proud of the school. This continued for 10 years. Then because of health, I was forced to quit, and in two years the school was back to where large school managers said they did not think it possible.

Daily news and yearly reports from J. Edgar Hoover will show where we are headed and how fast, and that our brake lining needs repairs.

Ooba Ooba

Hastings, Neb.

During recent weeks I have read with a growing sense of repugnance and a feeling of disgust certain editorial material appearing on The Star's sports page.

It is certain that no one will contest the right of the sports editor or anyone else to disagree with the ideas of the Game Commission or any other public agency, but to make use of scurrilous yellow journalism to attack personalities is not worthy of the stature of The Star and smacks strongly of petty vindictiveness and an immature display of adolescent spleen

Surely The Star can carry its arguments to higher plain than ooba ooba.

One is inclined to wonder if some individual or selfish group is using the sports editor as a "hatchet man." The impression is of a master puppeteer pulling the strings while a pompous little man waves his arms and mouths invectives..

Jury Service

Lincoln, Neb.

And now the great debate will begin as the public retries Duane Pope and passes its judgment on the verdict. But before this begins, there is one chore which should be completed and that is to put into proper context the service of the jury.

This group of men and women undertook to fulfill its civic responsibility from which too often persons seek and find escape. Because there are people who will serve, society — including both the defense and the state —can be assured that the system of justice which we have outlined will continue to operate fairly.

While many, including myself, are not in accord with the death penalty, as long as it is the law of the land and as long as it is the prescribed penalty for those crimes outlined by the law, then it is the duty of those who serve on juries to bring forth that judgment.

There are few of us who will undergo the trauma which has been the experience of those who bravely and willingly fulfilled their obligation to society. Let us hope in whatever tangent the debate carries the case of Duane Pope that the selfless and unenviable service of this jury is respectfully appreciated.

The freedom-loving people can leave Cuba and our country will offer opportunity for a new life. It will be a one-way chartered plane traffic. At the other side in the U.S.A. as well as other countries, there is a small minority called communists who find all things wrong. Campuses, especially in California, are no exceptions, with names often seen in the papers as party card owners. Why not arrange for them a no-return trip to the nearest communist paradise?

Requirements Of Charter

Finally, our new form of government is still that — new. It is only a little more than two years old and a few rough spots are bound to show up now and then. Until the practical as well as technical areas of responsibilities and authorities are settled by experience, a few flareups can be expected and a few tempers will become frayed. But the system to date has shown a lot more promise than failure.

Johnsons To Tone Down Social Life

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is almost certain to curtail the White House social season when he returns to Washington after Christmas.

With casualties in Viet Nam running high, the President doesn't believe it's a good idea to put the White House in the position of giving gay parties.

The dinner for Princess Margaret had been scheduled weeks in advance, and no one knew that the Viet Nam fighting was going to be disastrous that week. Nevertheless some people got a sour reaction from the festivities.

The impression has prevailed in Washington social circles that the Johnsons have been trying to emulate the Kennedys society-wise. Jackie Kennedy had a lot of New York friends whom she imported for her gayest parties, and there were several occasions when they danced the twist all night. Breakfast was served about 5 a.m.

The Johnsons have not imported New York's cafe society nor have they danced all night. A good many of the parties have entertained Congress and were highly successful as evidenced by the record number of bills passed by the President at the last session.

But with coffins and hospital planes now coming back from Saigon, White House dinners will be on a much more modest scale and dancing will probably be cut out entirely.

If and when Secretary of Defense McNamara moves over to the White House to become assistant president, replacing McGeorge Bundy, the man who will replace him in the Pentagon is Cyrus R. Vance, now deputy secretary of defense.

Vance is one of "Lyndon's boys," trained in the Senate when LBJ was chairman of the Armed Services Special Preparedness Committee, formed after the first Russian Sputnik was launched, for the purpose of goading the Eisenhower administration into more activity in outer space.

Both Johnson and Vance did a good job. Vance had come down from the Wall Street law firm of Simpson, Thacher and Bartlett, recommended by another member of the firm, Eddie Weisl, the New Yorker closest to LBJ.

For three years they goaded Ike for falling behind in the space and missile race, and John F. Kennedy ran for president partly on this platform—only to have Bob McNamara later admit that we weren't behind in missiles after all. We were behind in satellites and probably still are.

Immediately after Kennedy was elected, Vice President Johnson asked him to appoint Cyrus Vance as general counsel of the Defense Department, and Vance has been moved up regularly ever since. He knows the Defense Department as well as his chief, Bob McNamara, but won't be as tough on the brass hats.

MARQUIS CHILDS

HEW Faces Manpower Problem

WASHINGTON—It is quite a jump to go from the director of an organization with 35 employes to one that will soon have 94,000. That is what happened to John W. Gardner when President Johnson persuaded him to leave the Carnegie Foundation to be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW was a giant, running the biggest insurance business in the world among a myriad other enterprises, before the last session of Congress piled on the load. Of the cornucopia of laws turned out in the year now ending, 22 assign new tasks or broaden responsibilities already in HEW. One is Medicare with the extraordinary difficulties it presents in free medical service even though it is limited to citizens over 65.

One of the ablest men recruited by the President for his administration, Gardner is now wrestling with his own recruiting problem. He must fill 11 or 12 top jobs and he is finding that it takes on the average three weeks to get the man he wants and all too often he finds the No. 1 candidate slipping out of the net.

His troubles illustrate the striking contrast between the first New Deal of the early thirties and what is in effect a new deal. In the thirties brains were on the bargain counter. The universities were half empty and college salaries were meager. Bright young men and women were eager to come to Washington with ideas and with zeal.

Today, as Gardner is discovering, the exact reverse is true. Full professors in the more distinguished universities where competition is keen get $20,000 or $22,000 a year, which compares with $27,000 for an assistant secretaryship in government. But at the top level of the academic community, in the past a fertile source of brains and experience for government service, the salary differential is only part of the story.

☆ ☆ ☆

Presidents, deans and even full professors get perquisites that enhance the job beyond money income subject to high tax rates. A free house, an expense allowance, generous travel grants, foundation money to pursue individual studies, these are some of the reasons the ablest men are reluctant to leave the Groves of Academe for the hubble bubble of Washington. Then, too, they know they will work twice as long and perhaps twice as hard in a government job as in the university.

The recruiting problem at the top level is bound to grow tougher in a booming economy and not in HEW alone by any means. The widely heralded departure of McGeorge Bundy, who left a deanship at Harvard to take a key advisory post under Kennedy, presents the White House with a vacancy difficult to fill. Bundy reportedly will head the Ford Foundation at a salary of $75,000 a year, a generous expense account and, incidentally, with a potential of wide influence over the academic community in the distribution of some $250 million of largess a year.

One of the difficulties is the furious pace of government at the top in the Kennedy administration and now under President Johnson. To put it mildly the President's work habits are erratic and he seems to have no consideration for the sensibilities or the mere endurance of his associates. One of the faithful expressed his private doubt in a low moment:

"At times we can't help feeling, as Milton put it, that we are 'eyeless in Gaza with the slaves at the mill.'"

The demands on a government servant in a policy-determining post increase by a geometric ratio as the problems of government increase. One of the posts Gardner must fill is commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration. The sensitivities of a highly profitable industry, of the public and of Congress are acute in this area. And as Morton Mintz has shown in his explosive book, "The Therapeutic Nightmare," a moribund and timid FDA can mean disasters in an era when so-called miracle drugs are touted as cure-alls.

In filling political appointments, tenure is a factor. A full professor in a leading university has life tenure which cannot be said of an assistant secretary. There is, too, a carry-over of the attitude that a bureaucrat is somehow a willful malingerer worming his way into government to eat up the taxpayer's money. One of the ablest bureaucrats who over the years with one secretary and another kept HEW running, Rufus E. Miles, Jr., assistant for administration, has just elected to take early retirement and a lectureship at Princeton University. This is another vacancy Gardner will find hard to fill since it means 11- or 12-hour days, six days a week.

Gardner's book, "Excellence: Can We Be Equal And Excellent Too?," engaged the President's interest and was one of the reasons he recruited the secretary, who had a wealth of experience in teaching, government and in foundations. Gardner can write a new chapter on the difficulties of achieving excellence at the top level of his vast domain when the penalties of government service seem to outweigh the rewards.

Watts Report Eye-Opener

The report of the McCone Commission to Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown of California on the Watts riots of this summer is a sobering piece of testimony. The report can be boiled down to one thing—the existence of a disadvantaged group and the demand that their situation be improved.

The group, of course, is the Negro population of Watts, a suburb just south of downtown Los Angeles. The report shows the riot there, which took 34 lives and claimed $40 million in property damage, was the product of human inequality and injustice.

Whether imagined or real in all instances, the discrimination that has been practiced upon the Negro in Watts has produced resentments that were bound to lead to violence. This is the lesson we must learn, not just so far as the Negro in the United States is concerned, but in regard to the entire world.

We no longer have any choice or any more time to waste in elimination of the disparities that exist among men. The disadvantaged of the world, including the Negro minorities of this nation, are too aware of what has happened to them for us to expect further resignation to an unkind and unjust fate.

The McCone Report made it plain that we either eliminate the social and economic barriers to progress that face these minorities or we will suffer the consequences. The consequences will be violence even in excess of that which wracked the community of Watts last summer.

The alternative calls for rapid and costly action but there should be little real question in the minds of the American people as to pursuit of this alternative. Those who think that discrimination will never again be even quietly countenanced are blind to the realities of their time.

Say Program Is Wrong

We have always thought the 4-H club baby beef program was considered beyond reproach.

Many farm boys and girls spend half the year feeding and petting their special charges and then comes the big auctions. Some boy or girl's pet steer brings a price of anywhere from $10,000 to $40,000. And after that there are speeches about the nobility of farming and stories of the fortunate winner planning to use the money for an education taking him or her off the farm forever. And the least of us feel that the kids could not be engaged in a more worthy spare time pursuit.

Well we have news. Iowa livestock leaders are shooting the program full of holes and demanding change.

They say it is teaching the wrong lessons. The steers may be lovingly but not properly fed. Their average gain is from 1.5 pounds to pounds a day which is not nearly enough. Modern feeding methods will do much better and the kids should be learning more about that.

There is too much emphasis on championships and an exorbitant payoff for the prize winners. The kids should be learning more about average prices of average steers for that's what they will deal with after they become too old for 4-H.

Then the competing steers are not fed to market specifications. The seven or eight hundred pound steers they are showing weigh about what the average steer should weight when it goes into the feed lot.

The Iowa leaders are demanding a more realistic program.

A Reformed Company

This being the Christmas season it is time to get out Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol and renew our acquaintances with Tiny Tim and with Scrooge and Marley. Marley, of course, only figures in the tale by being dead. But the rest of the characters do enough to make us all soft hearted and enter the Christmas holiday with a spirit of generosity.

The story is touching enough to make the hardest hearted feel compelled to go out and cure someone's broken leg and get him back up jumping joyfully with the Pepsi generation. But perhaps that is stretching it a bit. There was a time when love and affection was all that was needed to make a happy family. Now we live in a more complex time and our evening viewing tells us that the way to familial joy is for everyone in the family to have his own bottle of deoderant, or to take pills that have not one but three pain killing ingredients—that or take better care of one's lower tract, or feed one's family with a certain brand of coffee.

But that is all aside from the point. The most exciting thing about present day Christmas goodwill comes with the knowledge that the current firm of Scrooge and Marley is utterly reformed. The company of that name now does business in New York City. It writes adds, commercials, contributes magazine articles and reviews childrens books. Its attitude is a far cry from the Scrooge and Marley of Dickens. And what is more Marley is not dead.

We learn that the company will give its help Christmas bonus equal to two weeks pay, without coercion. The world does get a little better every year.

Astros Will Sleep Third Of Time Aloft

CAPE KENNEDY—Could you drop off into a restful sleep if you were hurtling through space at 17,500 m.p.h. and about 150 miles above the earth?

Well, it can be done, as proven by astronauts and cosmonauts. Now the knack is to be given a sterner test. NASA will insist that Astronauts Frank Borman and Jim Lovell get at least eight hours of shuteye out of each 24 they spend aloft. The schedule calls for them to stay up two full weeks.

That means that they'll doze through about 69 trips around the world, or nearly five days of their 14 in space.

Wonder if NASA has looked into the matter of snoring? Suppose one guy is a nocturnal bugler. How would you like to be cooped up with a snorer for 14 days and nights in a capsule with less move-around room than a phone booth? As flights grow longer, one tends to shudder at the problems involved in sending a couple of men to as comparatively adjacent a planet as Mars. With present know-how that would take the better part of a year and a half for the roundtrip, in a cramped vehicle which up to now has little in the way of creature comforts: No stove, refrigerator, no rugs to sweep the debris under and, alas, no plumbing.

So far, NASA has been darned adept at matching the personalities of the Gemini crews. They have come back tired, unshaven, chafed, dehydrated, slightly de-calciumized, somewhat dizzy and in one or two cases seasick from their brief stay in the water awaiting pickup. But, for all that, they have been jolly, articulate, and just like we've come to expect them to be: Manly, modest, magical.

But the law of averages requires that if we keep putting up more men in space, and more men in cramped quarters, we're going to be treated to the unusual sound of arguments from on high and maybe the sound of a fight in space. Years ago we had a very small weather group of men shivering on T-3, a 10-square-mile fresh water ice island that was circling the North Pole with a majestic resolution that pushed aside mountains of Arctic ocean ice. They shared and endured the vilest weather on the planet, winds that threatened to blow them away, hardships too great for even Eskimo companionship, patriotic togetherness beyond belief.

So the Air Force guy got into a fistfight with the Navy guy, on top of the world. Argument over the relative merits of the B-36 and the U.S.S. Missouri — or Navy coffee over Air Force salted peanuts.

☆ ☆ ☆

Col. Borman's head is wired, if that's the term, to tell ground stations he's dreaming during his slumber period. Jim McDivitt dreamed he had the mumps and presumably gave them to Ed White, who rode shotgun on that mission.

It's out of this world in more ways than one. But let's hope Col. Borman doesn't dream himself and pal into a case of measles.

Cause And Effect

Hastings, Neb.

Vandalism is the most important subject of the last 20 years because it aids and abets conformity and a steady increase in crime of all descriptions, and our prison population. The most shocking fact is that 75% of it is generated in the high school and college age brackets, and because of careless or unsuspecting and over-indulgent parents and school management, with only one eye and ear open. They do not have the students' respect because they do not earn it.

I have had 60 years of experience on school boards and other boards, and I think I know why they succeed or fail. Our county high school got so low both morally and educationally that many of the girl students were taken out. The school board all resigned and the faculty was let go and none hired for the coming year. I was asked to take over the job of re-establishing the school, which I did on my own terms, and I got the full cooperation of all concerned. I saw that they all understood all our rules, and at the end of our year we could meet all competition, with our pupils acting like ladies and gentlemen, proud of themselves and proud of the school. This continued for 10 years. Then because of health, I was forced to quit, and in two years the school was back to where large school managers said they did not think it possible.

Daily news and yearly reports from J. Edgar Hoover will show where we are headed and how fast, and that our brake lining needs repairs.

Ooba Ooba

Hastings, Neb.

During recent weeks I have read with a growing sense of repugnance and a feeling of disgust certain editorial material appearing on The Star's sports page.

It is certain that no one will contest the right of the sports editor or anyone else to disagree with the ideas of the Game Commission or any other public agency, but to make use of scurrilous yellow journalism to attack personalities is not worthy of the stature of The Star and smacks strongly of petty vindictiveness and an immature display of adolescent spleen.

Surely The Star can carry its arguments to higher plain than ooba ooba.

One is inclined to wonder if some individual or selfish group is using the sports editor as a "hatchet man." The impression is of a master puppeteer pulling the strings while a pompous little man waves his arms and mouths invectives.

Jury Service

Lincoln, Neb.

And now the great debate will begin as the public retries Duane Pope and passes its judgment on the verdict. But before this begins, there is one chore which should be completed and that is to put into proper context the service of the jury.

This group of men and women undertook to fulfill its civic responsibility from which too often persons seek and find escape. Because there are people who will serve, society — including both the defense and the state —can be assured that the system of justice which we have outlined will continue to operate fairly.

While many, including myself, are not in accord with the death penalty, as long as it is the law of the land and as long as it is the prescribed penalty for those crimes outlined by the law, then it is the duty of those who serve on juries to bring forth that judgment.

There are few of us who will undergo the trauma which has been the experience of those who bravely and willingly fulfilled their obligation to society. Let us hope in whatever tangent the debate carries the case of Duane Pope that the selfless and unenviable service of this jury is respectfully appreciated.

No Return

Lincoln, Neb.

The freedom-loving people can leave Cuba and our country will offer opportunity for a new life. It will be a one-way chartered plane traffic. At the other side in the U.S.A. as well as other countries, there is a small minority called communists who find all things wrong. Campuses, especially in California, are no exceptions, with names often seen in the papers as party card owners. Why not arrange for them a no-return trip to the nearest communist paradise?

ETV Council To Meet

The Nebraska Council for Educational Television, Inc., will hold its annual meeting in Lincoln Friday.

A majority of the 108 member schools will send representatives to discuss 1966-67 ETV programming, elect officers and the board of directors, recommend a schedule of telecasts to meet the needs of member schools in both the central and mountain time zones, and discuss the expansion to come when Channel 9 at North Platte and Channel 13 at Alliance are activated as part of the state ETV network.

The council is the agency which arranges ETV programming for school participation purposes.

The council ended the 1964-65 school year with 43 members but now serves 108 public and private school systems across Nebraska, enrolling an estimated 95,000 students.

Victor Christenson, director, credited much of the growth to the recent addition of KLNE-TV, Channel 3, Lexington, to the ETV network.

The council's program scheduled for the current school year has programming in nine subject areas at levels ranging from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

The costs of operating the council are met by assessing each member school on a per pupil basis. The current assessment is $2 per year per pupil or $50, whichever is the larger.

CONVICT LOSES IN BID AGAINST LIFE SENTENCE

Convict Harlan Lynn Noble has lost another round in efforts to be relieved of a life sentence in the Nebraska Penitentiary for kidnaping, sodomy and being an habitual criminal.

Received by the Federal District Court Tuesday was notice that the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis has affirmed the judgment of Judge Robert Van Pelt that Noble was mentally competent in 1959 to be tried and to plead guilty to charges growing out of an Aug 1, 1959, incident involving a 6-year-old Lincoln girl.

Noble had been sentenced in Kansas in 1952 to a life term for rape, sodomy and being an habitual criminal. In 1956 he was placed in the Larned (Kan.) State Mental Hospital, from which he escaped in June 1959, approximately two months before the Lincoln offense

Claimed Insanity

Noble claimed he was insane at the time he was tried in Lancaster County District Court and therefore was denied equal protection of the laws and due process as guaranteed by the Constitution.

The Circuit Court held that the state has no constitutional duty, even when aware of a defendant's history of mental difficulty, to order on its own motion a pretrial sanity hearing.

Noble did have a right to take his case to Federal District Court, the Circuit Court held But the Federal District Court, in holding Noble to have been competent, correctly applied a federal standard for "Whether he (the defendant) has sufficient present ability to consult with his lawyer with a reasonable degree of rational understanding, and whether he has a rational as well as factual understanding of the proceedings against him."

Noble also complained that the Nebraska Supreme Court had rejected a habeas corpus appeal for failure to file printed briefs, and complained also of failure of the state courts to appoint counsel in the collateral proceedings.

The Circuit Court said the state was not obliged to appoint counsel for post-conviction proceedings, and said if there were any procedural defects in the state courts, they were corrected "by a full evidentiary hearing in the United States District Court."

Truckers Will Get Tax Back

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak Tuesday announced he will refund about $400,000 in excess fuel tax payments made by interstate truckers.

Dworak said he hoped the refunds would "counteract" trucker dissatisfaction with Nebraska's method of collecting fuel taxes on interstate movements.

Dworak said he accelerated efforts to refund the surplus funds when he learned Nebraska gasoline dealers were losing "a significant number of customers" as truckers filled with gasoline in neighboring states.

Date To January

Dworak said the $400,000 in excess funds date back to January of last year when the state disposed of the old port of entry system and adopted an Interstate Motor Carriers' Act.

Under the new system, miles traveled in the state are compared with total miles for the carrier, and the percentage derived determines the percentage of the carrier's fuel purchases which should be made in Nebraska.

In the event a carrier's purchases are under the required quantity, then Nebraska taxes must be paid on the difference. Refunds are made on all purchases in excess of the required gallonage.

Responsibility

Dworak's office assumed responsibility for collecting the interstate fuel tax in October under legislation approved by the last Unicameral. The State Agriculture Department previously administered the law.

"I do not consider that a tax program should be allowed to discourage business without our state," Dworak said. He pledged that future motor fuel tax refunds will be made promptly.

No Appeal

Washington (UPI)— The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said it will not appeal a U.S. Tax Court decision in favor of Freedom Newspapers, Inc.

Hastings Trade School Hearing Set

The State Board of Education Tuesday set Jan. 11 for a hearing on a petition to establish a Central Nebraska area vocational-technical school at the Hastings Ammunition Depot.

It will be the first hearing for creation of a locally operated trade school under 1965-enacted legislation. Petition sponsors hope for a May election.

The school would serve 17 counties encompassed by Educational Service Units 9, 10, 11 and 12.

The Legislature appropriated $500,000 in state funds to go to five area trade schools initiated with local funds.

Intent Announced

The board set the hearing date after announcing its intent to follow the recommendation of the last Legislative Council trade school study recommending a system of six to 10 schools, including the state-owned schools at Milford and Sidney.

The Education Department has received letters of intent to establish trade schools at Lincoln, Omaha, Columbus, Norfolk, Scottsbluff and Wayne.

The board approved a petition calling for formation of Nebraska's sixth public junior college, at Bellevue, but an election would have to be held before the school could be established.

A non-profit organization also has formed to sponsor establishment of a private junior college in the community south of Omaha.

Fifth at North Platte

The state's fifth public junior college, at North Platte, opened earlier this year. Other public junior colleges are located at Scottsbluff, Fairbury, Norfolk and McCook.

In other action, the board:

—Approved on a 3-1 vote an agreement between the Education Department's Rehabilitation Division and the State Health Department to provide counseling services to military draft rejectees.

—Approved for the first time specific programs in 21 public and private colleges and junior colleges as being sufficient for teacher certification. Previously, the board simply approved colleges and junior colleges for teacher certification and did not pass on specific programs.

—Suspended for one year, effective immediately, the Nebraska teaching certificate of Willard P. Stabb, who was charged with breaking a contract with the North Platte School District.

—Appointed Richardson County School Supt. Helen Hanika of Falls City, North Platte Junior College President William J. Ptacek, Concordia College Prof. Glenn C. Einspahr of Seward, Omaha Assistant School Supt. Paul Turnquist and Mrs. George Robertson of Omaha, chairman of the State Parent-Teachers Association (PTA) to two-year terms on the State Teacher Certification Committee.

Winnebago Teachers' Hearing Set Jan. 11

The State Board of Education Jan. 11 will hold a hearing on a complaint asking that the teaching certificates of two former Winnebago teachers be revoked.

The complaint was filed by the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA). The NSEA alleges the teachers engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Responsibility

Dworak's office assumed responsibility for collecting the interstate fuel tax in October under legislation approved by the last Unicameral. The State Agriculture Department previously administered the law.

"I do not consider that a tax program should be allowed to discourage business without our state," Dworak said. He pledged that future motor fuel tax refunds will be made promptly.

Hastings Trade School Hearing Set

The State Board of Education Tuesday set Jan. 11 for a hearing on a petition to establish a Central Nebraska area vocational-technical school at the Hastings Ammunition Depot.

It will be the first hearing for creation of a locally operated trade school under 1965-enacted legislation. Petition sponsors hope for a May election.

The school would serve 17 counties encompassed by Educational Service Units 9, 10, 11 and 12.

The Legislature appropriated $500,000 in state funds to go to five area trade schools initiated with local funds.

Intent Announced

The board set the hearing date after announcing its intent to follow the recommendation of the last Legislative Council trade school study recommending a system of six to 10 schools, including the state-owned schools at Milford and Sidney.

The Education Department has received letters of intent to establish trade schools at Lincoln, Omaha, Columbus, Norfolk, Scottsbluff and Wayne.

The board approved a petition calling for formation of Nebraska's sixth public junior college, at Bellevue, but an election would have to be held before the school could be established.

A non-profit organization also has formed to sponsor establishment of a private junior college in the community south of Omaha.

Fifth at North Platte

The state's fifth public junior college, at North Platte, opened earlier this year. Other public junior colleges are located at Scottsbluff, Fairbury, Norfolk and McCook.

In other action, the board:

—Approved on a 3-1 vote an agreement between the Education Department's Rehabilitation Division and the State Health Department to provide counseling services to military draft rejectees.

—Approved for the first time specific programs in 21 public and private colleges and junior colleges as being sufficient for teacher certification. Previously, the board simply approved colleges and junior colleges for teacher certification and did not pass on specific programs.

—Suspended for one year, effective immediately, the Nebraska teaching certificate of Willard P. Stabb, who was charged with breaking a contract with the North Platte School District.

—Appointed Richardson County School Supt. Helen Hanika of Falls City, North Platte Junior College President William J. Ptacek, Concordia College Prof. Glenn C. Einspahr of Seward, Omaha Assistant School Supt. Paul Turnquist and Mrs. George Robertson of Omaha, chairman of the State Parent-Teachers Association (PTA) to two-year terms on the State Teacher Certification Committee.

Winnebago Teachers' Hearing Set Jan. 11

The State Board of Education Jan. 11 will hold a hearing on a complaint asking that the teaching certificates of two former Winnebago teachers be revoked.

The complaint was filed by the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA). The NSEA alleges the teachers engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Tax Penalty Refunds Likely To Be Delayed Until 1967

Lancaster County taxpayers who were penalized for failure to report property on personal property schedules during the years 1962-64 will probably not be able to recover the penalties until 1967.

Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis told the County Board Tuesday that he estimates it will take about a year for his office to tabulate the penalties, and notify the persons who paid them. The penalties were declared unconstitutional by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

As a result of the Supreme Court ruling, the 1965 Legislature passed LB930, which provides that the penalties be repaid and refunded upon the individual's filing a claim within two years from the time the previous law providing for the penalties was declared unconstitutional.

Spot Check

Davis said that a spot check over the penalties collected in 1962 showed an average penalty of $25. He said if this figure is accurate for the three years, the amount to be refunded could run more than $109,000.

According to his deputies, who are working on the tabulations, the penalties run anywhere from 11 cents to more than $2,000.

The assessor's office will prepare a letter notifying all individuals who paid the penalty. The person's signature on the letter will serve as a claim when returned to the County Board, which must approve the claim, according to the law.

Biggest Problem

According to Commissioner William Grossman, the greatest problem involved in the refunds is debiting the proper funds from which the refund is made since certain portions of penalties were placed in various funds.

For example, Davis explained that the intangible tax penalties are allotted the same as the tax: one-sixth to the state; one-sixth to the county; one-third to the city, and one-third to the school district.

A special half hour program, billed as a "sports spectacular" honoring Nebraska's undefeated football team and encouraging contributions to the Orange Bowl float fund, will be telecast across Nebraska Friday night.

The Nebraska Centennial Commission and Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce have joined in the planning.

The 8:30 p.m. program will originate at KMTV in Omaha. Darrel Parker's Attorneys File Motion For New Trial

Attorneys for Darrel Parker, serving a life-sentence for the 1955 strangulation-slaying of his wife Nancy, filed a motion for a new trial in Lancaster District Court Tuesday.

The motion alleges errors on the part of the court in its Nov. 30 ruling denying Parker post-conviction relief.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin held that Parker was not entitled to relief under the state's new post-conviction law and that the Escobedo vs. Illinois case is not retroactive.

Parker had sought relief under the new law, LB836, passed by the 1965 Legislature on grounds that his detention, committment and judgment of conviction were unlawful and in violation of his constitutional rights.

Title 1 Of Act 'Limited To Aiding Severe Problems'

The use of funds under Title One of the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act is limited to those children with severe educational problems, county school superintendents were told Tuesday.

"This is not general aid to education," Jack Krueger of the State Education Department explained to the superintendents attending a meeting Tuesday to discuss the provision of Title One of the act.

He said he has rejected many projects from school administrators which called for purchases of equipment which would have benefited all children in the schools.

Categorial Aid

"Our biggest problem seems to be communicating that this is categorical aid and that the projects must be selective," Krueger said.

Nebraska has been allocated $6,920,191 under the provisions of the act.

Lincoln has received $244,164. Other allocations include: Omaha, $749,196; Fremont, $121,542; Grand Island, $114,416, and Beatrice, $104,447.

Title One funds are designed to finance projects in elementary and secondary schools for educationally deprived children who come from homes with family incomes of $2,000 or less.

Approval Needed

"You're going to have to identify who these children are, how many there are, and which grades they're in and analyze their educational needs before projects are designed," Krueger said.

The State Education Department must approve all special projects before federal funds may be made available.

Saunders Co. School Plan Turned Down

Wahoo (AP)—A proposed school reorganization plan which would have merged school districts in approximately the northeast third of Saunders County was turned down by voters Tuesday.

Saunders County School Superintendent Mrs. Audrey Williams said the proposal carried in the present Wahoo district but was turned down by all of the other smaller town and rural districts involved. Approval of all districts was required for passage, she said.

In addition to the Wahoo district, the proposal would have involved districts at Cedar Bluffs, Yutan and Mead and a number of rural districts.

Mrs. Williams said the proposed reorganization would have had a total valuation of about 29 million dollars and a school population of approximately 2,100. It would have called for a centrally located high school at Wahoo and 8 or 9 elementary schools located throughout the proposed new district.

Go-Cart Track Shift Approved

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday approved the application of W. D. McClellan to transfer his amusement license from 14th and Cornhusker to 27th and Superior.

McClellan, operator of a go-cart track, assured representatives of the Northwest Lincoln Improvement Association that the cars would have mufflers to cut down noise and the the business would keep proper hours.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of smoothing and beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of moist tropical oil. The skin takes on a radiant peaches-and-cream bloom as roughness and tiny lines are gently smoothed out. This beautifying treatment with the tropical oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants to give the complexion day-long beauty and the natural glow of a healthy skin, even in winter. Used daily before making-up Olay promotes a pretty youthful complexion bloom.

Report Rates Roses, Rocks

Los Angeles (AP) — A report by a governor's commission on the bloody Watts riots left almost as many bouquets and brickbats flying Tuesday as the missiles hurled by the rioters themselves.

One city councilman called the report "old hat"; another said it was "a good job." One labor union leader said, "Inadequate and unimaginative"; another, "A severe disappointment." A Negro editor: "Too weak." A county supervisor: "Very worthwhile."

Eight civic leaders headed by John Alex McCone, 63, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Central Intelligence Agency, released Monday their 101-page report, "Violence in the City —An End or a Beginning?" after 100 days of testimony-taking.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown appointed them after the Aug. 11-16 upheaval that left 34 persons dead and $40 million in damage done. He asked them to find causes of the disaster and propose means of preventing another.

Local officials got going Tuesday on some of the recommendations.

County superivsors ordered four county departments to survey housing, park, street, lighting and traffic signal needs in a large Negro area.

In the city council, Negro member Billy G. Mills introduced motions to strengthen the civilian board of police commissioners and to get more minority-group members into civil service "positions of responsibilities."

Like Old Play

Mills, one of the commission report's most vocal critics, had told a newsman: "It reads like an old play. The conclusions are so obvious. No. jobs, bad schooling, poor community - police relations, the need for a human-relations commission — why, Negro leaders have been talking about these things for years."

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn: It's "very worthwhile. I think the one weakness was that they failed to include statistics on church attendance and broken homes. Of the 501 juveniles arrested, only 25% went regularly to Sunday School or Church."

Councilman Paul Lamport: "Most of these problems are old hat to many people. I didn't have to wait for this report, for example, to find out that there is a lack of jobs for minority groups."

Councilman John C. Holland: "A good job."

Chester L. Washington, editor-in-chief of the Sentinel, a Negro weekly: "The report's narration of events and the citation of most of the basic causes are generally accurate. However, some of the recommendations are too weak to deal effectively with the serious situation existing today."

W. J. Bassett, executive secretary of the AFL-CIO Los Angeles County Federation of Labor: Proposed solutions are "inadequate and unimaginative. Massive new federal, state and local government public works programs are imperative."

Spanish Air Crash Fatal To 32

Santa Cruz de Tenerife, Canary Islands (AP)— A Spanish charter plane carrying tourists believed to have been mostly from Sweden crashed in a wind and rain storm shortly after takeoff here late Tuesday. All 32 on board were killed, officials announced.

The DC3 twin-engine transport apparently had one engine on fire, officials said, as it turned back to the Rodeos Airport on this Spanish Atlantic island. It crashed into a house two miles from the airport. The party had headed back to Las Palmas after the tourists spent the day here.

Rescue squads found no survivors, an airport spokesman said.

The plane carried a crew of 4 and 28 passengers. It was operated by Spantax Airline, a charter company founded largely by pilots of the Spanish National Airlines to operate in the Canary Islands and North Africa.

The crash was the first accident to a passenger plane in Spain since last May 6 when a Spanish Iberia airliner trying to land at Santa Cruz Airport struck runway machinery, killing 31 of 48 persons aboard.

The one-day excursion was organized by the Fernando Po Travel Service of Las Palmas.

'Fanny Hill' Acclaim Provokes Lively Exchange In Court

Washington (AP) — Supreme Court justices asked Tuesday whether a sexy book can escape the obscenity clause because a critic calls it important literature, or a pastor says he uses it to counsel parishioners.

The court, by hearing arguments in three cases, is taking what amounts to a second look at its own 8-year-old ruling on the balance between suppressing obscenity and maintaining freedom of speech.

One lively exchange was provoked by a discussion of the literary acclaim given ny a number of university professors to a 200-year-old classic of explicit sex, "Fanny Hill."

"Does this mean that well-written, literate pornography is outside the reach of the court?" asked Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

Serious Opinion

Attorney Charles Rembar, arguing for lifting a Massachusetts ban on the book, said he would not contend that a single critic's praise of the literary value of a racy work should automatically acquit him. But he said the serious opinion of a number of critics, using accepted literary and historic standards, should be convincing. He claimed this kind of approval for "Fanny Hill."

Justices Brennan and John M. Harlan wondered out loud how a judge could assess the redeeming social importance claimed for a book without reading it. Harlan said, "Maybe I wasted my time, but I read it ('Fanny Hill') in advance."

Chief Justice Earl Warren at another point observed that some 25 books are involved in the pending cases. He said, "I don't think this court has to be the final censor and read all the prurient material in the country . . . If the final burden is on this court, it looks to me as though we are in trouble."

Focal Point

A number of the arguments leaned heavily on the idea that a book is not legally obscene unless it is completely devoid of redeeming social importance.

Before hearing the arguments in the obscenity cases, the court:

—Ruled the Federal Power Commission has the authority to set temporary price limits for natural gas sold in interstate commerce without full scale hearings. The decision directly affects producers in south Louisiana.

—Moved to compel greater cooperation among railroads in sharing traffic and establishing freight rates by giving the Western Pacific Railroad Co. "connecting lines" status in its effort to force three other carriers to share traffic with it on a Far West route.

—Ruled that a labor union that wins an unfair practices case before the National Labor Relations Board has a right to intervene in a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals review of the proceedings.

Louisiana Asks Court To Void New Voting Law

Washington (AP) — Louisiana asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to declare the 1965 voting rights law unconstitutional and to bar Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach from enforcing it in the Deep South state.

"The act is not only unconstitutional as written, it is unconstitutional as applied by the agents and agencies of the government," Louisiana said in a brief filed with the high court.

The Department of Commerce is assisting financially in the selling of American goods overseas by means of airborne and ship trade exhibits.

Louisiana Asks Court To Void New Voting Law

Washington (AP) — Louisiana asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to declare the 1965 voting rights law unconstitutional and to bar Atty. Gen Nicholas Katzenbach from enforcing it in the Deep South state.

"The act is not only unconstitutional as written, it is unconstitutional as applied by the agents and agencies of the government," Louisiana said in a brief filed with the high court.

Suicide Ninth Leading Cause Of Death In Nebraska

(Editor's Note: The following story has been prepared as a project in the University of Nebraska "depth reporting" class by a student who is also a member of the staff of The Lincoln Star.)

By JIM PATTEN
Star Staff Writer

A pretty coed turns herself into a human torch on a Pennsylvania college campus . . . a monk burns himself to death on the streets of Saigon . . . a Quaker dies by fire in front of the Pentagon in Washington.

Suicide. The word begins to creep into the headlines as the acts increase.

But stop right there. Are suicides increasing? The answer is "no"; today's suicide rate is almost the same as in 1900. Today's suicides, the fiery kind, may attract more attention, but suicide is a problem that has struck virtually every culture at every stage of civilization.

In Nebraska, more people take their own lives each year than die of alcoholism. More take their own lives than die of appendicitis. Or murder, airplane crashes, car-train collisions, tuberculosis, ulcers.

Suicide was the ninth leading cause of death in Nebraska in 1964, a fairly typical year. But it was the third leading cause of death for males between the ages of 15 and 29.

In the last 10 years, 1,517 persons have died by their own hands in Nebraska. Their ages have ranged from 11 to past 90. They've died by all the usual methods — shooting, hanging, poisoning — plus some unusual ones. Like the man who, authorities said, sprinkled a raw hamburger sandwich with strychnine, ate it, and died on the way to a hospital.

And there was one person who used a buzzsaw, slashing her wrists, arms, and throat. One man hanged himself in a westbound bus; another jumped from the running-board of a speeding pickup truck. Still another shot himself as his wife and some friends watched.

Nearly Perfect Curve

If suicides in Nebraska were portrayed on a graph, they would show a nearly perfect curve. The line would begin at the 10-14 age level, ascend gently to a peak at the 50-54 level and then begin a gentle drop.

Correlated against the number of persons in each age group, however, Nebraska figures would be the same as they are the world over: the older a person is, the more likely — statistically speaking — he is to kill himself.

Men kill themselves more than women (by more than 3-1). Whites kill themselves more than Negroes. Divorced men are more likely to do themselves in than widowed men.

It is easy to spot patterns, trends, even cycles and "epidemics" of suicide. Explaining them is another story.

Here is one man's explanation. He was 22, but deeply distressed. Because he sought psychiatric help, he is now an active, producing, stable individual. This is his account of what it's like to play brinksmanship with your own life:

"The feeling had been building up for some time. I knew that I wanted to kill myself but I just didn't want to admit it. When I was a kid, I often picked up a knife and pointed it to my stomach thinking what it would be like to fall on it and feel life slip away . . .

Wanted To Escape

"Before my 'breakdown,' the situation was different. I wanted desperately to escape from my present life. I often thought of running away. I thought I would just fill my automobile with gas and head for Colorado. I thought I would send money to my family and send for them later. But the thought was too unconventional for most people to understand. I couldn't tell my wife — she wouldn't let me go.

"All of this time, I can see now, I was considering an alternate to a physical escape. I was secretly thinking how hard it would be to die after slitting my wrists. The bleeding would be too long. I needed something fast.

"My final decision came one day at noon when I was lying on the bed waiting to go back to work—a shotgun.

"I jumped up, slammed a mirror with my fist and called my wife. According to the psychiatrist's advice, she had hidden my shotgun. I told her I wanted it. I knew this was my only escape. The barrel pointed toward the roof of my mouth would give me immediate and permanent escape.

"The moment of confrontation with my wife brought me to my senses. I didn't need the gun anymore; I knew that I needed a hospital."

This man is now one of the estimated two million Americans who are still among the living despite having attempted suicide.

His attempt was unsuccessful, so he doesn't show up in the statistics of death.

More In Spring

A study of such statistics in Nebraska over the last 10 years turned up at least one dominant trend: Nebraskans kill themselves more in the spring than at any other time of year.

The 10-year total of suicides in March, April, and May shows 459 deaths. Summer suicides claimed 359, autumn 351, and winter 358. When the six cold months (September-February) are compared with the six warm months (March-August), the warm months are clearly the most dangerous, 818 to 708 deaths over the decade 1955-64.

The worst year for suicides in Nebraska was 1956, when 179 died. Sociologists say this follows the universally recognized principle that suicides rise during economic setbacks. The two years of least suicide since 1951 were 1954 and 1955, when 136 died each year. The reason? Those were Korean War years — and suicides fall during wartime.

But why would suicides increase in the springtime, when, for most people, the outlook is the rosiest?

An early French sociologist, Emile Durkheim, said of the springtime suicides that this is when human interaction is highest, and he hypothesized that suicide is precipitated "when human relations cross and recross, when social life is most intent."

Another guess as to why more persons kill themselves in the spring, a guess that might be applicable in rural Nebraska, is that farmers, who have lived through the winter on the results of their previous year's labor, may face — in the spring — a bleak growing year.

Prime Candidates

Farmers, some doctors believe, are prime candidates for suicide because of the nature of their work. Sunup to sunset labor, with no time for other interests which might lead to other rewards. When they quit farming, or when the crops fail, they have nowhere to turn.

Take the 1956 figure, Nebraska's worst suicide year in the last decade. Total net farm income the previous year was $208.4 million, compared with $416.3 million the year before.

Farm income dropped in 1955; suicides rose in 1956. Could it be that the full impact of the poor income year of 1955 didn't hit until 1956?

All of which goes against sociological grain, against the theory that the city dweller is more apt to kill himself than the rural citizen, who is supposed to have escaped from the pressure cooker of metropolitan life. But one set of Nebraska statistics indicates that the farmer may have as many or more frustrations than his city cousin.

A study conducted by Dr. Bulent Tunakan of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, and the Douglas County Health Department covered the same decade (1955-64) as the state-wide study. The study in the state's most metropolitan area, Douglas County, showed an annual suicide rate of 8.2 per 100,000 population. That figure was well under the U.S. rate which ranged from 10.2 to 11 during the period.

Furthermore, it was well under average for this largely rural state. Against Douglas County's 8.2, the state average hovers around 10 to 11, and has been known to reach as high as 11.9.

Douglas County

The Douglas County study also failed to reveal spring as the leading time for suicides. March, for example, the month of greatest danger for the state as a whole, was among the three least dangerous months in Douglas County. Suicides peaked in Douglas County in April, but no three months taken together show any trend.

No one knows for sure exactly what this means. Nor does anyone know, for sure, if the suicide records—in Nebraska or from Douglas County—are accurate.

It is recognized that suicide statistics are particularly open to doubt. Many suicides go unreported, experts believe, to avoid scandal, to collect insurance benefits, or for religious or personal reasons.

Many go unreported, too, because they are disguised as accidents. If a car goes out of control and strikes a bridge abutment and the driver dies, who can tell if the event was an accident or a suicide?

Col. Dan J. Casey, superintendent of the State Safety Patrol, is convinced that many "traffic fatalities" are, in fact, suicides.

"I think there is without a doubt a great possiblity that some of our fatal accidents are suicide. We have attempted to prove in numerous cases that the element of suicide should be considered," he says.

"However, to definitely establish that this was a suicide is a very hard thing . . ."

Hard To Find

Equally as hard is to find a reason for the rising suicide rate among young men. As other causes of death decrease with the advances of science, suicide becomes proportionately more important. In Nebraska, only cancer and accidents killed more young men in 1964. And there have been years when only accidents were more dangerous than suicide.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company reports that "white males in adolescence and early adult life recorded a very considerable increase in suicide. At ages 15-19, for example, the rate rose nearly 50%—from 4.0 to 5.9 per 100,000 between 1950-52 and 1960-62; at 20-24 years the rate was up a little more than 25%."

The company also notes that "the greatest relative rise in the frequency of suicide between 1950-52 and 1960-62 occurred among nonwhite persons—23% for males and 41% for females at all ages combined. The trend was upward over the entire range of ages in each sex."

Deaths by suicide among young men are typical, sociologists say, in mobile societies, societies which are losing population to other areas of the nation. Such as Nebraska.

The "deep South" is also suffering from out-migration, but its suicide rate is below Nebraska's. In 1963, according to figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), the suicide rate in Mississippi (the state with the lowest rate) was 5.5 per 100,000 population. Nebraska's rate that year was 9.7.

Highest Rate

By sections of the country, the Pacific Coast states led the nation with a rate of 16.7. The mountain states were next and the west north central, which includes Nebraska, next.

The disparity between the state with the highest rate, Wyoming, and Mississippi, the lowest, is striking. The 5.5 rate in Mississippi is only about one-fourth as high as the 20.2 rate in Wyoming. Nevada ranked second in 1963 and Colorado was third.

Which raises the question as to why mountain folks kill themselves more than nearly everyone else. The answer seems to be good, old-fashioned rugged individualism.

The person tightly integrated into a community and controlled by that community and its standards is less apt to kill himself, sociologists say. And mountain-dwellers are traditionally individualistic.

Nebraska ranked 37th among the 50 states in suicides in 1963. Iowa was 15th, Missouri 17th, Kansas 19th, and South Dakota 33rd.

There is no law against suicide in Nebraska. But clearly, suicide violates the rules of many religions. Most churches say that God gave man life and it is up to God to say when that life shall end.

But the churches (Lutheran and Roman Catholic) which might forbid a church burial to a person who has committed suicide are being influenced by psychiatry and psychology and there is, as one priest put it, "a tendency to give the individual the benefit of the doubt."

Growing Understanding

With "the growing understanding of the makeup of man," the priest said, the church is more likely to assume that a person who has killed himself "was not in the possession of his faculties" at the time of death. With this approach, the number of persons deprived of a church burial is shrinking.

There is no explicit prohibition against suicide in the Bible, but clergymen say the Sixth Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," embraces the taking of one's own life as well as killing others.

One Methodist minister termed suicide a "crying out for wholeness" rather than seeking for death. He said suicide can be "a motivation for health, not death."

Suicide is often labeled as a "cry for help." This is why many suicide attempts are unsuccessful. "There is no wish to die. They are usually attention-getters to elicit sympathy, to make somebody worry a little bit more," writes Russell Palmer in a pamphlet published by Claretian Publications of Chicago.

At the University of Nebraska, such attempts are on the rise, NU mental health hygienists say. No statistics are kept, but suicides average "about one a year, or less."

They say that as the university grows more students are excluded, or think they are, from inner campus circles. And their loneliness can lead to depression and suicide.

Among the most tragic aspects of suicide, experts agree, is that it is "contagious." Fairly good proof of this was found by the Frenchman, Durkheim, who pointed out that 15 suicides occurred in a dark hallway of a single European hospital over a short span of time. All of the suicides occurred the same way: the individual hanged himself from a hook. All used the same hook. When it was removed, the suicides stopped.

"Perhaps the most serious burden on those left behind," a HEW publication says, "is that they may identify with the victim and become preoccupied with the fear that they, too, may resort to suicide if life becomes very difficult."

It is this tendency to identify which leads many to think suicide is inherited. It is not.

Nor is it true that "people who talk about suicide don't commit suicide." Of any 10 people who kill themselves, HEW says, eight have given definite warnings. Such warnings consist of repeated talk of death or suicide threats, planning for death or absence, chronic sleeplessness, loss of weight from loss of appetite, withdrawal from social contacts, loss of interest in hobbies, or any other changes in behavior that make a person seem quite "different" from his usual self.

"Democratic"

HEW also points out that suicide is "neither the rich man's disease nor the poor man's curse. Suicide is very 'democratic' and is represented proportionately among all levels of society."

Even the animal kingdom is not free of suicides. The lemmings make an annual march to the sea where many drown, a phenomenon that is still unexplained. And Aristotle wrote of a horse that was believed to have committed suicide.

The problem is as old as man himself.

"Suicide," says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company," is a major medical and social problem of major dimensions, and merits greater attention than it has thus far received."

The problem is getting attention. Recently the National Institute of Mental Health announced that it is establishing a suicide prevention center in Bethesda, Maryland, to disseminate information on suicide to doctors, clergymen, police, educators, and others throughout the nation.

Suicide prevention centers have been set up in several cities, including Los Angeles, New York City, Worcester, Mass., Miami, Fla., and Chicago. Trained personnel are there to answer the anguished calls for help.

(At the Los Angeles center, 1,607 calls were received the first year. Approximately two-thids of the callers were women. The busiest night was Wednesday, the busiest week the week before Christmas. Calls fell off Christmas week itself.)

Source Of Help

The first source of help, however, is usually the family physician. A psychiatrist, a psychiatric social worker, clergymen, or just a friend — all may help.

Last year, 156 persons in Nebraska succumbed to dimly understood mental and physical torments and killed themselves.

Those lives, or many of them, at least, could have been saved.

The answer to the problem of suicide is, perhaps, a very simple one. Dr. Karl Menninger, the famous psychiatrist, says that the establishment of an adequate relationship with just one person may be sufficient to save a person from suicide.

"All we need is one person who cares," says Palmer in his pamphlet.

Suicide takes more than 20,000 lives every year in the United States. How can these deaths be stopped?

The answer may be, simply, love.

Highest Rate

By sections of the country, the Pacific Coast states led the nation with a rate of 16.7. The mountain states were next and the west north central, which includes Nebraska, next.

The disparity between the state with the highest rate, Wyoming, and Mississippi, the lowest, is striking. The 5.5 rate in Mississippi is only about one-fourth as high as the 20.2 rate in Wyoming. Nevada ranked second in 1963 and Colorado was third.

Which raises the question as to why mountain folks kill themselves more than nearly everyone else. The answer seems to be good, old-fashioned rugged individualism.

The person tightly integrated into a community and controlled by that community and its standards is less apt to kill himself, sociologists say. And mountain-dwellers are traditionally individualistic.

Nebraska ranked 37th among the 50 states in suicides in 1963. Iowa was 15th, Missouri 17th, Kansas 19th, and South Dakota 33rd.

There is no law against suicide in Nebraska. But clearly, suicide violates the rules of many religions. Most churches say that God gave man life and it is up to God to say when that life shall end

But the churches (Lutheran and Roman Catholic) which might forbid a church burial to a person who has committed suicide are being influenced by psychiatry and psychology and there is, as one priest put it, "a tendency to give the individual the benefit of the doubt "

Growing Understanding

With "the growing understanding of the makeup of man," the priest said, the church is more likely to assume that a person who has killed himself "was not in the possession of his faculties" at the time of death. With this approach, the number of persons deprived of a church burial is shrinking.

There is no explicit prohibition against suicide in the Bible, but clergymen say the Sixth Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," embraces the taking of one's own life as well as killing others.

One Methodist minister termed suicide a "crying out for wholeness" rather than seeking for death. He said suicide can be "a motivation for health, not death."

Suicide is often labeled as a "cry for help." This is why many suicide attempts are unsuccessful. "There is no wish to die. They are usually attention-getters to elicit sympathy, to make somebody worry a little bit more," writes Russell Palmer in a pamphlet published by Claretian Publications of Chicago.

At the University of Nebraska, such attempts are on the rise, NU mental health hygienists say. No statistics are kept, but suicides average "about one a year, or less."

They say that as the university grows more students are excluded, or think they are, from inner campus circles. And their loneliness can lead to depression and suicide.

Among the most tragic aspects of suicide, experts agree, is that it is "contagious." Fairly good proof of this was found by the Frenchman, Durkheim, who pointed out that 15 suicides occurred in a dark hallway of a single European hospital over a short span of time. All of the suicides occurred the same way: the individual hanged himself from a hook. All used the same hook. When it was removed, the suicides stopped.

"Perhaps the most serious burden on those left behind," a HEW publication says, "is that they may identify with the victim and become preoccupied with the fear that they, too, may resort to suicide if life becomes very difficult."

It is this tendency to identify which leads many to think suicide is inherited. It is not.

Nor is it true that "people who talk about suicide don't commit suicide " Of any 10 people who kill themselves, HEW says, eight have given definite warnings. Such warnings consist of repeated talk of death or suicide threats, planning for death or absence, chronic sleeplessness, loss of weight from loss of appetite, withdrawal from social contacts, loss of interest in hobbies, or any other changes in behavior that make a person seem quite "different" from his usual self.

"Democratic"

HEW also points out that suicide is "neither the rich man's disease nor the poor man's curse. Suicide is very 'democratic' and is represented proportionately among all levels of society."

Even the animal kingdom is not free of suicides. The lemmings make an annual march to the sea where many drown, a phenomenon that is still unexplained. And Aristotle wrote of a horse that was believed to have committed suicide.

The problem is as old as man himself.

"Suicide," says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company," is a major medical and social problem of major dimensions, and merits greater attention than it has thus far received."

The problem is getting attention. Recently the National Institute of Mental Health announced that it is establishing a suicide prevention center in Bethesda, Maryland, to disseminate information on suicide to doctors, clergymen, police, educators, and others throughout the nation.

Suicide prevention centers have been set up in several cities, including Los Angeles, New York City, Worcester, Mass., Miami, Fla., and Chicago. Trained personnel are there to answer the anguished calls for help.

(At the Los Angeles center, 1,607 calls were received the first year Approximately two-thids of the callers were women The busiest night was Wednesday, the busiest week the week before Christmas. Calls fell off Christmas week itself.)

Source Of Help

The first source of help, however, is usually the family physician. A psychiatrist, a psychiatric social worker, clergymen, or just a friend — all may help.

Last year, 156 persons in Nebraska succumbed to dimly understood mental and physical torments and killed themselves.

Those lives, or many of them, at least, could have been saved.

The answer to the problem of suicide is, perhaps, a very simple one. Dr. Karl Menninger, the famous psychiatrist, says that the establishment of an adequate relationship with just one person may be sufficient to save a person from suicide.

"All we need is one person who cares," says Palmer in his pamphlet.

Suicide takes more than 20,000 lives every year in the United States. How can these deaths be stopped?

The answer may be, simply, love.

Franchise Cancelled Over Sales

. . . CHIEF SAYS

An American Motors official testified Tuesday before the Nebraska Motor Vehicle Dealers' License Board that a Lincoln dealer's franchise was cancelled because of "unsatisfactory sales performance."

"Lincoln is a one dealer town," L. W. Stevens, American's dealer development director said, but emphatically denied the company ever contemplated terminating the Mowbray Buick-Rambler Inc. franchise when it appointed a second dealer.

Mowbray Bruick - Rambler of 421 No. 48th has charged American Motors Sales Corporation violated Nebraska law in terminating its franchise and using coercive pressure on the dealer.

Mowbray was appointed a Rambler dealer in 1958. Later, in 1962, Dean Bros. was also appointed a Rambler dealer and in July of this year, Mowbray was terminated as a dealer.

Stevens said Mowbray "did an excellent job" when first appointed, but there "was a deterioration in the later years."

He said Dean Bros. was appointed because the "Lincoln market was not being penetrated fully."

"It was a matter of self-preservation," he said.

E. P. Doran, American's district manager, said under questioning by Mowbray's attorney, "Guy Dean didn't say get rid of Mowbray, but he did say he would like Lincoln all to himself."

Mowbray has contended a $90,000 business loss because of the franchise termination.

But, the auto manufacturer maintained that Mowbray first breached the franchise agreement by unsatisfactory merchandising performance and failing to carry a "full line of Ramblers."

The board continued the hearing for final arguments at its Jan. 12 meeting.

American's attorneys indicated the constitutionality of the state law will be challenged. The board is empowered to suspend or revoke a distributor's license.

John Wilkinson Auto Sales Inc. Is Reprimanded

The Nebraska Motor Vehicle Dealers' License Board Tuesday voted 5-1 to reprimand John Wilkinson Auto Sales Inc. of 500 No. 48th for alleged unethical practices.

Action followed a November hearing on a complaint made against the Wilkinson firm by a Lincoln Air Force Base couple in connection with an October automobile transaction.

A motion to suspend the Wilkinson license for three days failed to gain support for what several members termed legal technicalities.

In other action, the board issued a salesman's license to George Wimpey, a Wilkinson salesman, but deferred decision on the application of Marshall McCoy for a license. McCoy is employed as sales manager by the firm.

It's getting quite Christmasy around the scatter. We got the falling tree guyed up with wires.

No immediate crises. The Peoples Daily in Peiping says, in case of war, "we will bury you." Mr. Khrushchev said that a long time ago—"We will bury you."

They don't mean with a perpetual care lot at Forest Lawn either.

If anybody's going to bury me, bury me in sentiment. I am an emotional bloke, come Christmas.

☆ ☆ ☆

I come not to bury Santa Claus but to praise him. This is the season of Christmas bells in a silent night. A drift of snow and shining packages underneath the tree.

It is also the season of shopping—when the lady in the elevator gives you the karate poke with her umbrella. She did not bury me. But she buried the umbrella point in me.

The season of red berries glowing on green holly leaves. Grey-green mistletoe hung on the doorway. Frosted window panes and houses all aglow with many colored lights.

In 1897, little Virginia O'Hanion queried the great New York Sun. "Is there a Santa Claus?" asked Virginia. "My daddy says if you see it in the Sun, it's so."

Well, this bit of sentiment (with that built-in plug for the Sun) smote the editors. And they assigned a writer name of Francis Pharcellus Church to reply to Virginia.

"Yes, Virginia," wrote Francis, "there is a Santa Claus!"

That's all we remember of it. But I looked up the whole thing the other day. And believe, me, Francis buried Virginia thereafter in purple prose.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Your little friends are wrong," wrote Francis. (The kids on Virginia's block had been finking that there was no Santa Claus.)

"They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect . . ."

And from there on, Francis was off to the races. You couldn't follow him without a dictionary.

When my children ask me, "Is there a Santa Claus?"—I take them around to the department store—fourth floor, toy department.

I ask them, "Who do you think is passing out the candy?"

I don't give them that "man is a mere insect" stuff. We've been getting rid of ants lately. They come up the water pipes when it rains.

I don't let my children write the editor either.

If they are going to put out material, let them write me.

I don't recall anybody wanting to bury me at this mellow season of the year.

The only real problem I had was one year when my grandmother lived in an apartment house. It was very swanky to live in apartments then — most people lived in mere houses.

The question was, how could Santa Claus get in the house? There was no chimney.

Grandma said it could be worked out by leaving the front door open. Santa could come up the stairs. It was not very romantic. But it was the best we could do.

DEAR ABBY: We belong to a small card party club which we all enjoyed until one member started bringing her 72-year-old widowed mother to every card party. Everyone treats "Granny" with respect, even though the old lady is outspoken, tactless and talks a lot. We are not enjoying the club the way we used to, and it is on the verge of breaking up because of this. The member who brings her mother told us she doesn't enjoy having her mother along, and would love to get out of it, but she doesn't know how. She says her mother now looks forward to these card parties, and she can't leave her home without hurting her feelings. Have you any suggestions?

CLUB MEMBERS

DEAR MEMBERS: If your club does not have a ruling on how many times a member can bring the same guest perhaps you should add it. Naturally, the club must vote on it. Then the member who has been bringing her mother could explain the rule to her mother and her feelings would be spared.

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone to pick with you. In your column you made reference to "obscene" postcards. And you called them FRENCH postcards. Why French? As an informed writer you ought to know that filthy postcards are manufactured all over the world, mainly in Japan and Germany. They are imported to France and sold to Americans. You have offended all the fine people of French extraction and I think you owe us an apology. At least print this so the world will know that the French people have nothing to do with those dirty postcards. They only sell them. Merci!

NEWS
of suburban areas

There seem to be two problems in suburbia today. First — the flu bug and the mumps and measles are making their annual rounds much to the dismay of holiday orientated youngsters and their busy families. A few days in bed during the Christmas season means disaster when the tree is still to be trimmed, the gifts to be chosen, and holiday goodies to be eaten.

The second problem is time. Especially for those many families who are moving into new homes just before the holidays.

MEADOW LANE

Although the Thomas Timberlake family didn't cross into Nebraska via covered wagon, Lincoln is now their first "western" home. The Timberlakes, who arrived Dec. 1, formerly resided in Marion, Va., but their hometown is Buffalo, N.Y.

Getting acquainted with the Meadow Lane younger set are Diane, Karen and Johnny. Also arriving with the newcomers were two other members of the family — Cindy and Jill, a Spaniel and a Beagle.

The Timberlakes' new address, 7610 Vine St., is the former residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Crymes, III. The Crymeses now are making their home at 202 Hicks, in Lonoke, Ark

Last week suburban residents said farewell to Maj. and Mrs. Joseph K. Piggott and family. The former Lincoln residents now are assigned to Stewart AFB in Nashville, Tenn.

Also leaving the Meadow Lane area, but not the city was the Robert E. Reese family. Former residents of 8330 Vine, their new address is 3241 No. 45th.

But suburbia no sooner loses one family than it gains another. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hultstrand and their daughter, Lori, are now the new neighbors at 1317 Meadow Dale Dr. The Hultstrand family formerly resided at 1423 So. 23rd.

With all the moving news this morning it seems that the suburban residents have a case of wanderlust. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harold and their children, Steven and Jennifer, for instance, will be leaving Lincoln this weekend, but only for a two day visit to Des Moines, Iowa.

The travelers will be the house guests of a former Lincoln family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ritzen. The Ritzens, former residents of Cotner Terrace, moved from Lincoln last May.

COTNER TERRACE

Several Cotner Terrace couples will be trimming the trees, windows and doors of the First Covenant Church this Friday evening. The eight couples will complete their Christmas decorating and then head for a hearty dinner in the church hall.

There's moving news in this section of the city, too. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Deming and their very young son, John, have changed their Lincoln address from 4231 No. 66th to 2332 Burnham. The Demings are four-year residents of the city.

Also packing up and moving to a new home are Mr. and Mrs. Don Heckenberg. The 6310 Adams St. number has now been changed to 6627 Colby.

Getting into those old military uniforms was the main topic of conversation at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Wilhelm Tuesday evening. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wilhelm and their son and daughter, Eric and Dorothy. After dinner the two couples attended the VFW dance where all men were required to wear uniforms.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

The last Sunday in November meant a big celebration for Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Minzel and family. The 28th was Mr. Minzel's birthday and a card party and buffet were in order.

Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Minzel of Pleasant Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Minzel of Emerald and Mr. and Mrs. August Minzel of Pickerell. On the Lincoln side of the family were Mr. and Mrs. John Minzel, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Schramm and son Butch; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Rudford and daughters; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Allen and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen and daughters.

PRAIRIE HILL

Mrs. Helen Rickman of Paducah, Ky., left Sunday after spending a week visiting with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Rickman and son, David.

Mrs. Helen Rickman of Paducah, Ky., left Sunday after spending a week visiting with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Rickman and son, David.

LINCOLN HEIGHTS

Guests have come and gone in the Lincoln Heights area and at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Miller. Their visitors for a few days were Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bopf of Moline, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Bopf also come for a visit with Mrs. Bopf's mother, Mrs. Lillian Wright. At the end of their stay in Lincoln Mrs. Bopf and her mother, Mrs. Wright, left on a short vacation trip to Los Angeles, Calif.—and Mr. Bopf. It was back home to Moline for him.

TASTY tested recipes to benefit school

Although the group pictured above may more nearly resemble an assembly line than a PTA meeting, it happened to be both —for the feminine members of Bethany PTA have been hard at work for weeks writing and compiling a cookbook of favorite recipes—all for the benefit of the school.

The very special cookbook, all 600 copies, will go on sale Friday evening, Dec. 10, at the annual open house of Bethany School, and guesses are that there will not be a copy left. Proceeds will be used by the PTA for a new record player and loud speaker for the school, as well as additional library books.

Opening lead — six of hearts.

Defense is frequently said to be the most difficult part of the game and there is no doubt that some players have a lot of trouble when it comes to defense.

However, good defense is a logical process, and most mistakes made in this area of play are due largely to lazy thinking. There are nearly always vital inferences that can be drawn in any hand, and the player who looks constantly for them to guide him to sound conclusions is bound to do well on defense.

Here is a simple case which shows the process at work. Let's say you have the West cards and lead a heart. East wins with the king and returns the five, South having played the ten and then the queen.

If you are an impulsive player who refuses to think things out, you grab the queen with the ace and return a heart whereupon South, after taking a diamond finesse, proceeds to make four notrump.

But if you are a really cautious citizen, you beat the contract. It is not hard to figure out that South started with precisely the Q-J-10 of hearts and East the K-5-2. Once you reach this conclusion, it becomes obvious that the best thing to do is let South win the heart at trick two and hope he cannot run nine straight tricks.

South's play of the 10-Q in conjunction with East's plays of the K-5 are highly significant. South cannot have the Q-10 alone because, in that case, East would have returned the two, his original fourth-best, not the five.

South must also have the Q-J-10 without the deuce, because it would not make sense for him to play the ten instead of the two on the opening lead if he started with the Q-J-10-2.

In the actual hand, the effect of ducking the queen is that South must go down. A little bit of thought can do a lot.

Identical bright road signs that suggest cartoons sprout beside streets and highways from Norway to Cambodia. Some 35 nations have adopted a system of standard symbols worked out by the U.N. Conference on Road and Motor Transport in 1949.

Home Court Advantages

A pamphlet out of Los Angeles, Calif., called Nation-Wide Basketball, that is designed to help the man on the street beat his bookie, pays particular attention to the home court advantage in the short pants sport.

It gives Nebraska a six-point advantage when the Huskers play at the NU Coliseum and Creighton is worth six points also just by playing at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Colorado, Kansas State, Missouri, and Oklahoma State also get six among Big Eight teams while Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa State get only five points because of their home floor.

The biggest home floor advantage is seven points and is owned by Bradley, Brigham Young, Clemson, Duke, Duquesne, Evansville, Florida, Miami, Fla., Notre Dame, Penn State, UCLA, and Utah.

Even At The Coliseum

According to their charts, if Nebraska is playing Creighton at the NU Coliseum, the game is a toss-up. However, if they play on a neutral floor, you better get six points if you want Nebraska and if they play in Omaha, you need 12.

The publication lists its day-by-day forecasts according to four categories with "shade" meaning 1 to 5 points, "comfortable" meaning 6 to 10 points, "handy" meaning 11 to 16 points, and "romp" meaning by more than 17 points.

The publication figured Nebraska for a "Comfortable" win over Oregon State Tuesday night. They give Iowa a "comfortable" margin over Creighton tonight and pick the Bluejays by a "Shade" over Bradley in the Thursday night clash at Omaha.

Doing It With Mirrors

Tommy O'Boyle, who resigned recently as football coach at Tulane, ended his coaching stint at the New Orleans school the same way he started.

When Andy Pilney resigned the Tulane post Nov. 22, 1961, O'Boyle took over the coaching reins for the final game that season and was whipped, 62-0, by LSU.

This year in the final game of the season for Tulane, they lost again, 62-0, to LSU and O'Boyle resigned, likely figuring some alumni may have thought he was in a rut.

Unanimous Vote Likely

While Nebraska gridders were deciding between the Orange and Cotton Bowls this fall, Missourians were contemplating a trip to the Sugar Bowl and LSU was voting on the Cotton Bowl, another bowl vote was being taken for the Wheat Bowl at Walla Walla, Wash.

One of the invited teams was the Washington State Penitentiary Steelers and it is assumed the vote to accept the bowl bid was unanimous.

The perfect ending to the story was ruined when the Eastern Washington College Jaycees scored a 39-13 victory, but it was a trip outside the walls for the inmates on the football team and it is sure to boost the number of players wanting to try out for the team next season.

Huskers Win Home Opener Over Oregon State, 75-63

Press Blunts OSU Attack

. . . 5,700 WATCH CONTEST

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska used its new press to good advantage Tuesday night to defeat Oregon State, 75-63, in the Huskers home opener before 5,700 at the NU Coliseum.

The Huskers began the press early in the first half with good success. Moreover, in the opening minutes of the second half, Oregon State was forced into three errors in succession that were caused by Nebraska's harrassing press.

In the first half, Nebraska's tactics and the Beavers' ball control combined for a low scoring contest. The score at halftime was 36-23 in favor of Nebraska.

Before the game began, Nebraska fans were asked to stand until the Huskers made their first point. The fans didn't have long to wait as Willie Campbell hit a free throw with 19:07 left in the half.

From that point the lead changed hands several times until Nebraska's Nate Branch's free throw broke a 10-10 tie with 12:35 left in the half.

Nebraska immediately opened a three-point lead on Tom Baack's set shot from the corner, but the Huskers could not open the gap further until late in the half.

With 7:18 left, Nebraska began using the press again which they had discarded earlier. The press seemed to be the turning point as the Huskers went from a 19-17 lead to their 13-point margin at the half.

The Huskers scored seven points in less than three minutes while blanking the Beavers to gain a comfortable margin which Nebraska kept the rest of the night.

Nebraska's largest lead was 17 points (51-34) which the Huskers took on two free throws by Baack and successive field goals by Fred Hare and Grant Simmons.

Sophomore forward Baack, 6-5, paced the Huskers in scoring and rebounds with 18 and 10, respectively. His scoring effort was high for both teams.

The Beavers were led in both departments by 6-6 center Ed Fredenberg. Fredenberg took the game high of 17 rebounds and hit 14 points.

The two teams had a poor night from the field, both hitting only 33.8% of their shots; however, Nebraska hit 74.3% from the charity strip compared to 66.7% for Oregon State. This final percentage proved to be the difference.

Nebraska's next game will be with California at Berkeley Friday.

Plans Set For Track At Lincoln

Gen l manager Henry Brandt announced plans for a huge improvement program Tuesday for the Lincoln Fairgrounds which far exceed any earlier announced plans.

Brandt said bids would be opened this Friday for the construction of a half-mile auto race track and a man-made lake to be built within the present ⅝ mile thoroughbred race track.

Earlier it had been estimated that in order to have a car race track at least part of the current thoroughbred track would have to be utilized in front of the grandstand.

But Brandt said further study revealed the nev venture was possible. The project will be completed in time for the 1966 races at the Fairgrounds.

Double use of the present track has long been objected to by horsemen who race at Lincoln. It also hasn't been cost free. Each year tons of dirt has been removed prior to the car races and then applied again in time for the next year's horse racing.

The lake and vast landscaping program will make the Capital City plant one of the most attractive in the area. Infield lakes are a fixture at some of the most luxurious tracks in the nation.

NU Has Two Offense Titles

. . HUSKERS CAPTURE NATIONAL, BIG EIGHT HONORS

Kansas City, Mo.,—Nebraska has won the national team rushing title. It has also taken the Big Eight Conference's total offense championship, displaying the best offensive balance shown by a titlist. All this came during the year pass offense came top side in the Conference.

The Cornhuskers averaged 404 a game, second-best in the nation, and became the first to go over the 400 mark without at least 300 a game on the ground. Their rushing total was 290, keeping the infantry tag in the league.

However, pass offense was sparkling. Three teams passed at least 1,100 yards for the first time since 1952. Iowa State led with 1,418, a Conference top since Missouri had 1,762 in 1951. Colorado finished with 1,217 and Nebraska, 1,140.

Now that it is over, more passes were lofted, more completed, and more yards gained than ever before in the league. Twice this season the single-game-attempts record was broken to help push the league total to 1,510. It was back in 1952 that the previous high of 1,376 was cast.

This year, 618 found the mark for 7,938 yards. Before, the most completions, 564, came in 1951, while the yards high of 6,975 was hung up in 1962. The percentage of success, almost 41, is down the list, however. The best of .454 was in 1959.

The last two games brought no major changes in the team statistical standings. Nebraska won the four divisions it had led all year—rushing and total offense and rushing and total defense. Defensively, the Cornhuskers finished with a 109.2 rush average and a 202.7 overall mark.

Iowa State won both passing honors, coming on fast late. Offensively, Tim Van Galder's closing shots took the pass-offense crown from previous leaders, Kansas, Kansas State, and Nebraska, with its 141.8 average. Defensively, the Cyclones allowed only 82.1, preventing Nebraska from equalling last year's peak of five figure titles. The Huskers had a 93.5 standard for second.

Rushing offense and total offense runner-up spots were grabbed by Missouri with 247.3 and 316.4 marks, while Colorado was second in rush defense (115.5) and total defense (231.3).

—OKLAHOMA COACHING VACANCY—

Tennessee's Dickey Hot Prospect For Grid Post

Oklahoma City (AP) The name of Tennessee football Coach Doug Dickey emerged Tuesday night as one of the hottest prospects for the coaching vacancy at the University of Oklahoma.

Ross Porter Jr., a widely known Oklahoma sports broadcaster, said it appears "extremely likely" that Dickey, 33, will be named the new head football coach at OU to succeed Gomer Jones, who resigned Monday.

Jones reportedly will remain as athletic director for the remaining two years of his contract at a salary of $18,500 a year, Porter said.

Porter said he learned from "reliable sources" that Dickey had been offered $20,000 a year, plus other benefits.

He said formal announcement of Dickey's selection is expected to be made following the Blue-bonnet Bowl game between Tennessee and Tulsa at Houston Dec. 18.

Porter said he learned that Dickey was on the Oklahoma campus at Norman last week.

1st Boxing Smoker Set For Pershing

Lincoln Golden Gloves action will get under way Dec. 15 with the first smoker of the season slated for Pershing Auditorium.

Chairman Bill DeRock of the sponsoring Lincoln Master Barbers' Association said the first fighters would step into the ring at 8 p.m. to launch another year of Golden Gloves competition in the Capital City.

Three Lincoln boxing clubs are expected to field fighters in the first go-round and DeRock said attempts will be made to get fighters on the card from Grand Island, Fairbury, Norfolk and Fremont.

Fighters in the Capital City have been working out with the Roberts Dairy Club under Larry Emery, the Midwest Speedways Boxing Team under Rollie Johnson and Vic Burrell and the Ted White Boxing Club with White at the Belmont Community Center.

DeRock also said Colin Moon, two-time Southeast District welterweight champion, may enter some fighters he has been training at Fremont.

Orange Bowl Ticket Orders Over Supply

Requests for Orange Bowl tickets from all sources have exceeded the supply, James Pittenger, athletic ticket manager at the University of Nebraska, said Tuesday.

A total of 12,000 orders have been received. The University received an allocation of 11,000 tickets for the game with Alabama.

By the close of the Orange Bowl ticket sale for University students Monday, it was evident that all students who placed orders would receive tickets.

Pittenger feels that by paring down some of the ticket requests from other sources, it probably will be possible to provide some tickets to all those who requested them by the Dec. 1 deadline. In some cases the seats will be in the end zone.

The ticket office will begin filling Orange Bowl orders this week. Mailing is expected to be completed the week of Dec. 13.

—SEASON'S INITIAL AWARD—

Fullerton's Kramer Is Player Of Week

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Fullerton's Jack Kramer, the state's tallest prep basketball player, grabs the first "player of the week" award for basketball.

The 6-10 senior got the Warriors off to a flying start last weekend as he paced the Class C contender in a 70-58 win over Neligh and a 68-52 triumph over Seward.

Jack poured in 31 points against Neligh, connecting on 13 of 18 attempts from the field. He also garnered 24 rebounds.

He came back the next night to dump in 32 points against Class B Seward. He dropped in 15 of 22 field goal attempts, giving him a two-game mark of 70 per cent from the field.

The Fullerton veteran, who led the Warriors to the state meet last year, also turned in good defensive play in the opening week wins, blocking many shots.

Jack and the following players will receive recognition for top performances last week:

Mike Aspen, Hastings St. Cecilia—Scored 37 points, grabbed 24 rebounds in 70-62 win over Henderson.

Jim Losey, Naponee—Scored 30 points in 76-45 win over Stamford.

Dennis Delp, Norfolk—Came off bench to score 17 points, including last two field goals in third overtime to give Norfolk 59-57 win over Kearney.

Steve Life, Arapahoe—Last second goal provided 60-59 win over Oxford.

John Arnold, North Platte St. Patrick—Forty-three points and 10 rebounds by 6-6 center led mates to 72-45 win over Wauneta.

Gene Staehr, York — Sparked York's 70-63 win over Columbus with 20-point outburst.

Dale Kassemeier, Snyder — Tallied 23 points, added 19 rebounds in 56-53 win over Dodge.

Don Hanquist, Polk — Rangy senior hauled in 24 rebounds, added 17 points in 85-50 win over Hampton.

Home Court Advantages

A pamphlet out of Los Angeles, Calif., called Nation-Wide Basketball, that is designed to help the man on the street beat his bookie, pays particular attention to the home court advantage in the short pants sport.

It gives Nebraska a six-point advantage when the Huskers play at the NU Coliseum and Creighton is worth six points also just by playing at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Colorado, Kansas State, Missouri, and Oklahoma State also get six among Big Eight teams while Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa State get only five points because of their home floor.

The biggest home floor advantage is seven points and is owned by Bradley, Brigham Young, Clemson, Duke, Duquesne, Evansville, Florida, Miami, Fla., Notre Dame, Penn State, UCLA, and Utah.

Even At The Coliseum

According to their charts, if Nebraska is playing Creighton at the NU Coliseum, the game is a toss-up. However, if they play on a neutral floor, you better get six points if you want Nebraska and if they play in Omaha, you need 12.

The publication lists its day-by-day forecasts according to four categories with "shade" meaning 1 to 5 points, "comfortable" meaning 6 to 10 points, "handy" meaning 11 to 16 points, and "romp" meaning by more than 17 points.

The publication figured Nebraska for a "Comfortable" win over Oregon State Tuesday night. They give Iowa a "comfortable" margin over Creighton tonight and pick the Bluejays by a "Shade" over Bradley in the Thursday night clash at Omaha.

Doing It With Mirrors

Tommy O'Boyle, who resigned recently as football coach at Tulane, ended his coaching stint at the New Orleans school the same way he started.

When Andy Pilney resigned the Tulane post Nov. 22, 1961, O'Boyle took over the coaching reins for the final game that season and was whipped, 62-0, by LSU.

This year in the final game of the season for Tulane, they lost again, 62-0, to LSU and O'Boyle resigned, likely figuring some alumni may have thought he was in a rut.

Unanimous Vote Likely

While Nebraska gridders were deciding between the Orange and Cotton Bowls this fall, Missourians were contemplating a trip to the Sugar Bowl and LSU was voting on the Cotton Bowl, another bowl vote was being taken for the Wheat Bowl at Walla Walla, Wash.

One of the invited teams was the Washington State Penitentiary Steelers and it is assumed the vote to accept the bowl bid was unanimous.

The perfect ending to the story was ruined when the Eastern Washington College Jaycees scored a 39-13 victory, but it was a trip outside the walls for the inmates on the football team and it is sure to boost the number of players wanting to try out for the team next season.

Huskers Win Home Opener Over Oregon State, 75-63

Press Blunts OSU Attack

. . . 5,700 WATCH CONTEST

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska used its new press to good advantage Tuesday night to defeat Oregon State, 75-63, in the Huskers home opener before 5,700 at the NU Coliseum

The Huskers began the press early in the first half with good success. Moreover, in the opening minutes of the second half, Oregon State was forced into three errors in succession that were caused by Nebraska's harrassing press.

In the first half, Nebraska's tactics and the Beavers' ball control combined for a low scoring contest. The score at halftime was 36-23 in favor of Nebraska.

Before the game began, Nebraska fans were asked to stand until the Huskers made their first point. The fans didn't have long to wait as Willie Campbell hit a free throw with 19:07 left in the half.

From that point the lead changed hands several times until Nebraska's Nate Branch's free throw broke a 10-10 tie with 12:35 left in the half.

Nebraska immediately opened a three-point lead on Tom Baack's set shot from the corner, but the Huskers could not open the gap further until late in the half.

With 7:18 left, Nebraska began using the press again which they had discarded earlier. The press seemed to be the turning point as the Huskers went from a 19-17 lead to their 13-point margin at the half.

The Huskers scored seven points in less than three minutes while blanking the Beavers to gain a comfortable margin which Nebraska kept the rest of the night.

Nebraska's largest lead was 17 points (51-34) which the Huskers took on two free throws by Baack and successive field goals by Fred Hare and Grant Simmons.

Sophomore forward Baack, 6-5, paced the Huskers in scoring and rebounds with 18 and 10, respectively. His scoring effort was high for both teams.

The Beavers were led in both departments by 6-6 center Ed Fredenberg. Fredenberg took the game high of 17 rebounds and hit 14 points.

The two teams had a poor night from the field, both hitting only 33.8% of their shots; however, Nebraska hit 74.3% from the charity strip compared to 66.7% for Oregon State. This final percentage proved to be the difference

Nebraska's next game will be with California at Berkeley Friday.

Plans Set For Track At Lincoln

General manager Henry Brandt announced plans for a huge improvement program Tuesday for the Lincoln Fairgrounds which far exceed any earlier announced plans.

Brandt said bids would be opened this Friday for the construction of a half-mile auto race track and a man-made lake to be built within the present ⅝ mile thoroughbred race track.

Earlier it had been estimated that in order to have a car race track at least part of the current thoroughbred track would have to be utilized in front of the grandstand.

But Brandt said further study revealed the new venture was possible. The project will be completed in time for the 1966 races at the Fairgrounds.

Double use of the present track has long been objected to by horsemen who race at Lincoln. It also hasn't been cost free. Each year tons of dirt has been removed prior to the car races and then applied again in time for the next year's horse racing.

The lake and vast landscaping program will make the Capital City plant one of the most attractive in the area. Infield lakes are a fixture at some of the most luxurious tracks in the nation.

NU Has Two Offense Titles

. . HUSKERS CAPTURE NATIONAL, BIG EIGHT HONORS

Kansas City, Mo.—Nebraska has won the national team rushing title. It has also taken the Big Eight Conference's total offense championship, displaying the best offensive balance shown by a titlist. All this came during the year pass offense came top side in the Conference.

The Cornhuskers averaged 404 a game, second-best in the nation, and became the first to go over the 400 mark without at least 300 a game on the ground. Their rushing total was 290, keeping the infantry tag in the league.

However, pass offense was sparkling. Three teams passed at least 1,100 yards for the first time since 1952. Iowa State led with 1,418, a Conference top since Missouri had 1,762 in 1951. Colorado finished with 1,217 and Nebraska, 1,140.

Now that it is over, more passes were lofted, more completed, and more yards gained than ever before in the league. Twice this season the single-game-attempts record was broken to help push the league total to 1,510. It was back in 1952 that the previous high of 1,376 was cast.

This year, 618 found the mark for 7,938 yards. Before, the most completions, 564, came in 1951, while the yards high of 6,975 was hung up in 1962. The percentage of success, almost 41, is down the list, however. The best of .454 was in 1959.

The last two games brought no major changes in the team statistical standings. Nebraska won the four divisions it had led all year—rushing and total offense and rushing and total defense. Defensively, the Cornhuskers finished with a 109.2 rush average and a 202.7 overall mark.

Iowa State won both passing honors, coming on fast late. Offensively, Tim Van Galder's closing shots took the pass-offense crown from previous leaders, Kansas, Kansas State, and Nebraska, with its 141.8 average. Defensively, the Cyclones allowed only 82.1, preventing Nebraska from equalling last year's peak of five figure titles. The Huskers had a 93.5 standard for second.

Rushing offense and total offense runner-up spots were grabbed by Missouri with 247.3 and 316.4 marks, while Colorado was second in rush defense (115.5) and total defense (231.3).

—OKLAHOMA COACHING VACANCY—

Tennessee's Dickey Hot Prospect For Grid Post

Oklahoma City (AP) The name of Tennessee football Coach Doug Dickey emerged Tuesday night as one of the hottest prospects for the coaching vacancy at the University of Oklahoma

Ross Porter Jr., a widely known Oklahoma sports broadcaster, said it appears "extremely likely" that Dickey, 33, will be named the new head football coach at OU to succeed Gomer Jones, who resigned Monday.

Jones reportedly will remain as athletic director for the remaining two years of his contract at a salary of $18,500 a year, Porter said.

Porter said he learned from "reliable sources" that Dickey had been offered $20,000 a year, plus other benefits.

He said formal announcement of Dickey's selection is expected to be made following the Blue-bonnet Bowl game between Tennessee and Tulsa at Houston Dec. 18.

Porter said he learned that Dickey was on the Oklahoma campus at Norman last week.

Three Lincoln boxing clubs are expected to field fighters in the first go-round and DeRock said attempts will be made to get fighters on the card from Grand Island, Fairbury, Norfolk and Fremont.

Fighters in the Capital City have been working out with the Roberts Dairy Club under Larry Emery, the Midwest Speedways Boxing Team under Rollie Johnson and Vic Burrell and the Ted White Boxing Club with White at the Belmont Community Center.

DeRock also said Colin Moon, two-time Southeast District welterweight champion, may enter some fighters he has been training at Fremont.

Orange Bowl Ticket Orders Over Supply

Requests for Orange Bowl tickets from all sources have exceeded the supply, James Pittenger, athletic ticket manager at the University of Nebraska, said Tuesday.

A total of 12,000 orders have been received. The University received an allocation of 11,000 tickets for the game with Alabama.

By the close of the Orange Bowl ticket sale for University students Monday, it was evident that all students who placed orders would receive tickets.

Pittenger feels that by paring down some of the ticket requests from other sources, it probably will be possible to provide some tickets to all those who requested them by the Dec. 1 deadline. In some cases the seats will be in the end zone.

The ticket office will begin filling Orange Bowl orders this week. Mailing is expected to be completed the week of Dec. 13.

Seventh-Ranked Kansas Beats New Mexico State

. . . 102-51 COUNT NEW JAYHAWK RECORD

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—The 7th-ranked Kansas Jayhawks tied the school scoring record by clipping New Mexico State 102-51 Tuesday night although the starting lineup played only about half the game.

Coach Ted Owens used reserves the last five minutes of the first half and the last 15 minutes of the game. The Jayhawks raced to a 62-27 halftime bulge, hitting 65 per cent from the field.

Kansas, now 3-0 for the season, had seven men in double figures, led by Ron Franz, 6-foot-7 junior cornerman, with 19 points. The starters scored 65 points. Delvy Lewis had 14 and 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley scored 11, 16 under his average.

The Jayhawks used deadly outside shooting to break open when the Aggies dropped back around Wesley early in the game. Kansas hit 53 per cent for the game to 38 and led 49-31 in rebounds with Franz getting 10.

Chadron's Armstrong Honored

Chadron (UPI) — Ross Armstrong, director of athletics and chairman of the physical education division at Chadron State College, will be admitted into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Football Hall of Fame this Saturday at Augusta, Ga.

A. O. Duer, executive secretary of the NAIA, announced Tuesday that Armstrong has been elected to the hall for "meritorious service."

Armstrong is in his 33rd year at Chadron State. He came to the school in the fall of 1933 as assistant football and basketball coach.

In 1935 he became head basketball coach and in 1938 took over the duties of athletic director and football coach. He also coached track that spring.

At one time or another, until 1949, he coached all teams at Chadron State. He made a brief return to coaching in the fall of last year when he coached the swimming team.

Armstrong, who is also a civic leader in Chadron, will be recognized in a NAIA hall of fame banquet in Augusta Saturday following the NAIA Champion Bowl game between St. John's of Minnesota and Linfield, Ore.

No CIC Move Now

Kearney — Representatives of the Central Intercollegiate Conference voted in Topeka, Kans., over the weekend to invite Kearney State College into the league, but Antelope athletic director Charlie Foster says any such move would be far in the future, if at all.

"It would be a year, anyway, before we could make the switch in football," Foster says. "Right now we have no plans. We're happy with what we have now."

Kearney is a member of the Nebraska College Conference with the three other state colleges at Peru, Wayne and Chadron plus Hastings College.

CIC representatives plan to meet with Dr. Milton J. Hassel, Kearney State president, in the near future.

Kearney's withdrawal from the NCC and inclusion in the CIC has been the subject of discussion in the past. The discussion has been heightened since Doane College withdrew last year from the NCC, leaving it an awkward five-team circuit.

Kearney, which ordinarily dominates the NCC in football and track, usually includes CIC members Washburn and Fort Hays on its football schedules and has more than held its own with them in the past.

Seventh-Ranked Kansas Beats New Mexico State

. . . 102-51 COUNT NEW JAYHAWK RECORD

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—The 7th-ranked Kansas Jayhawks tied the school scoring record by clipping New Mexico State 102-51 Tuesday night although the starting lineup played only about half the game.

Coach Ted Owens used reserves the last five minutes of the first half and the last 15 minutes of the game. The Jayhawks raced to a 62-27 halftime bulge, hitting 65 per cent from the field.

They tied the school scoring mark set by Wilt Chamberlain and Co. in a 102-46 romp over Nebraska in 1958 with Wilt getting 46.

Kansas, now 3-0 for the season, had seven men in double figures, led by Ron Franz, 6-foot-7 junior cornerman, with 19 points. The starters scored 65 points. Delvy Lewis had 14 and 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley scored 11, 16 under his average.

The Jayhawks used deadly outside shooting to break open when the Aggies dropped back around Wesley early in the game. Kansas hit 53 per cent for the game to 38 and led 49-31 in rebounds with Franz getting 10.

Nebraska SIDs To NAIA Posts

Kearney (UPI)—Two sports information directors at Nebraska colleges have been named to positions by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Dick Manley, Wayne State, has been chosen as District II Sports Information chairman. He replaces Norm Taylor, formerly at Omaha University who moved to New Mexico.

Don Briggs, Kearney State, has been chosen as Area III chairman Area III is composed of Districts 10, 11, and 12 of Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas

Omaha U Wrestlers Blank Kearney State

Omaha (UPI)IThe University of Omaha defeated Kearney State, 36-0, in a wrestling match Tuesday night

Curlee Alexander, a freshman in his first college match for Omaha, pulled an upset in the 115-pound class against Walt Griffiths of Kearney.

No CIC Move Now

Kearney — Representatives of the Central Intercollegiate Conference voted in Topeka, Kans., over the weekend to invite Kearney State College into the league, but Antelope athletic director Charlie Foster says any such move would be far in the future, if at all.

"It would be a year, anyway, before we could make the switch in football," Foster says. "Right now we have no plans. We're happy with what we have now."

Kearney is a member of the Nebraska College Conference with the three other state colleges at Peru, Wayne and Chadron plus Hastings College.

CIC representatives plan to meet with Dr. Milton J. Hassel, Kearney State president, in the near future.

Kearney's withdrawal from the NCC and inclusion in the CIC has been the subject of discussion in the past. The discussion has been heightened since Doane College withdrew last year from the NCC, leaving it an awkward five-team circuit.

Kearney, which ordinarily dominates the NCC in football and track, usually includes CIC members Washburn and Fort Hays on its football schedules and has more than held its own with them in the past.

Hoffmans Asks Reinstatement Or Year's Salary

Kearney (AP)—Kearney State College President Milton Hassel said Tuesday that dismissed teacher Ed Hoffmans had asked reinstatement or his full salary for the year.

In a letter, Hoffmans asked that the State Normal Board consider his request at its next meeting, Hassel said.

The college president said he would bring the request before the board at its meeting here next Friday afternoon.

Hoffmans contends he was fired for taking part in pacifist activities. The college said he was dismissed because he was inefficient, missed classes and disregarded college policy.

Recommendation Will Ask Removal Of 10-14 General Arnold Teachers

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Dr. Carroll Sawin, director of personnel for the Lincoln Public Schools, reported Tuesday he will recommend to Supt. Steven Watkins and the Board of Education that at least 10 and possibly 14 teachers be removed from General Arnold school at the end of the semester.

Sawin, with Lincoln Air Force Base school principal Dr. Corwin Enevoldsen, conducted a survey last week of the children in the housing area and anticipated times of departure to determine how many Arnold teachers could be used to fill expected vacancies in the district.

The public schools usually need to replace about 20 elementary teachers at the end of the first semester, Sawin explained, and the personnel department needed to have an estimate of available teachers before outside hiring is started.

Won't Be Filled

Some of the vacancies are at the base school, and these simply will not be filled, the personnel director noted.

The survey, according to Sawin, listed 884 children in General Arnold School Tuesday, but it predicted that only 600 would be in the district to start second semester.

Sawin said that most of the 600 probably would remain through the semester.

Unless vacancies open in other schools during the second semester, he said, teachers will not be removed from General Arnold even if class size diminished considerably. "We intend to honor all contracts," he emphasized.

'Just Don't Know'

The administration is confident that there will be some children in the school for at least one more year, according to Sawin, "but after that we just don't know what will happen.

"The status of the school will depend primarily on what happens to the base," he added, saying that many rumored proposals have not seriously been considered.

Deactivation of the base, the director explained," has not been all bad" for the schools, even though it is having a great effect on the community.

"It is giving us an opportunity to catch our breath" by slowing down building programs and reducing the need for bond issues, he said. The stable school population instead is providing a chance to "assess what we have and bring it up to standard."

They'll Be Absorbed

The several federal programs in which the schools hope to engage during second semester, the summer and next year will absorb teachers not needed at the base school, Sawin pointed out, announcing that he is sure the district will have to hire this spring even though the school population might not increase.

The latest phase-out forecast released at the base shows an authorization for about 2,500 officers and airmen on Dec. 31, 1965; 132 officers and 846 airmen on March 31, 1966; about 30 officers and 300 airmen in July, 1966, remaining constant until March 31, 1967.

Christmas Cards Should Be Sent By December 15

All local greeting cards should be mailed by Dec. 15th, Kenneth P. Lewis, Lincoln postmaster, says.

Lewis said greeting cards to distant U.S. points should be mailed by Friday, local gift pracels by Tuesday and overseas gifts should be sent via air mail, also by Friday.

Extra service windows are now being provided at the Lincoln Post Office for the Christmas rush period.

All stations, except the statehouse station, will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. week days beginning Monday, to Dec. 18th and again on Dec. 20th and 21st. Service on Saturdays, Dec. 11th and 18th, will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

2nd Omaha Bank Hikes Minimum Lending Rate

Omaha (AP) — The United States National Bank announced Tuesday its minimum lending rate has been increased from 4½ to 5 per cent.

The same action had been taken Monday by the Omaha National Bank following the Federal Reserve Board's increase in interest rates.

President John Davis of the third major downtown bank, The First National, said "I'm sure all of our rates will be scaled up, but we're going to wait two or three days to see what happens before we take any action."

Jury Awards Man $2,496 In Dispute Over Contest

A Lancaster District Court jury Tuesday awarded Charles Reed the cost of an all-expense paid trip for two to Europe which Reed contended he had won but had not been awarded by International Super Store Inc. in a September, 1964, contest.

The jury awarded Reed $2,496.44 which was the stipulated price of the 23-day trip awarded to another Lincoln couple in the "What's The Price" contest conducted by the store.

The plaintiff alleged that he was notified as the first-place winner in the contest and that the store had refused to perform its part of the contract in awarding the prize to him.

The defendants' position was that the plaintiff stated he could not take the trip and agreed to accept a second prize of a $10 gift certificate in lieu of the trip.

Judge Herbert Ronin ruled during the trial that there was nothing in the contract or rules of the contest which stated that the person who was awarded the prize had to personally take the trip.

Lentz received a $400 agricultural economics scholarship on the basis of a paper written on "The Transportation of Agricultural Products in Nebraska." Miss Detmer received a $500 scholarship for her work in 4-H clothing projects. White's $800 scholarship was awarded on the basis of his overall 4-H record, and Miss Mathers received the last half of an $800 home economics scholarship awarded last year.

Eight University students or graduates were honored as the 4-H club members having the highest averages in their respective classes. One boy and one girl from each class were named. They were: freshmen, Cheryl Ehlers of Roca and Chris Carlson of Lincoln; sophomores, Janice Kaufmann of St. Edward, and Thomas Reimers of West Point; juniors, Jeanette Coufal of Seward and Ronald Lindvall of Farnam; and seniors, Joan McGuire of Bassett and Gary Fick of Inman. Also invited as guests to the banquet were winners of Union Pacific and County 4-H scholarships.

The club bestowed its annual recognition on a former 4-H member who is "making the best better." Dr. Charles Adams, associate professor of animal science, was chosen as the 1965 winner. He is a Kansas 4-H alumni

A 4-H emblem paperweight was presented to Adams, and his name was engraved on a permanent plaque carrying names of other honorees.

Dr. Adams, who was chosen for the honor by a vote of University 4-H club members, has been associated with the NU Department of Animal Science for 18 years.

He has acted as coach for the Varsity Meats Judging Team since 1947. The team has entered all American Royal and International contests since that year.

Hoffmans Asks Reinstatement Or Year's Salary

Kearney (AP)—Kearney State College President Milton Hassel said Tuesday that dismissed teacher Ed Hoffmans had asked reinstatement or his full salary for the year.

In a letter, Hoffmans asked that the State Normal Board consider his request at its next meeting, Hassel said

The college president said he would bring the request before the board at its meeting here next Friday afternoon.

Hoffmans contends he was fired for taking part in pacifist activities. The college said he was dismissed because he was inefficient, missed classes and disregarded college policy.

Stock Mart Recovery Spectacular

New York (AP)—The stock market rebounded in slam-bang fashion, Tuesday, making its biggest gain in five months. Trading was heavy.

Volume was 9.35 million shares compared with 11.48 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average made a big leap of 11.80 at 951.33 as the market more than wiped out the losses sustained Monday on news of the boost in the discount rate, the nation's basic interest rate.

Wall Street seemed to be heartened, analysts said, by published reports that businessmen generally were in favor of the rise in the discount rate, disagreeing with President Johnson. The rise in itself was looked upon as evidence of the booming economy whose fires would not be dampened appreciably by the interest rate boost.

At the same time, fears of inflation were underlined, and stock prices feed on inflation. Prospects for business seemed more glowing than ever as the Commerce Department said businessmen have sharply increased their plans for spending on plant and equipment in the past few months.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to 1 or 2 points on a broad front while some of the more expensive and more volatile stocks ran up several points. Du Pont, a heavyweight blue chip, gained 6, contributing greatly to the rise in the averages.

Stock groups favored in the big autumnal rise were bought heavily again. These included color televisions, other electronics, airlines, aerospace defense stocks, office equipments and others.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .80 at 91.39. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 3.4 to 354.1 with industrials up 6.1, rails up 1.6 and utilities up .7. This was the largest rise since June 30 when the average rose 6.5.

Of 1,420 issues traded, 869 advanced and 336 declined. New highs for the year totaled 94 and new lows 44.

Fourteen of the 15 most active stocks rose, Curtiss Wright, off 1¼, being the only loser. Sperry Rand was the most active stock. It made an upside breakout to a new high and climbed 1¼ to 21¼ on 361,900 shares.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.62 million shares compared with 4.15 million Monday.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds edged upward following their slide on news of higher interest rates.

Stock Mart Recovery Spectacular

New York (AP)—The stock market rebounded in slam-bang fashion, Tuesday, making its biggest gain in five months. Trading was heavy.

Volume was 9.35 million shares compared with 11.48 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average made a big leap of 11.80 at 951.33 as the market more than wiped out the losses sustained Monday on news of the boost in the discount rate, the nation's basic interest rate.

Wall Street seemed to be heartened, analysts said, by published reports that businessmen generally were in favor of the rise in the discount rate, disagreeing with President Johnson. The rise in itself was looked upon as evidence of the booming economy whose fires would not be dampened appreciably by the interest rate boost.

At the same time, fears of inflation were underlined, and stock prices feed on inflation. Prospects for business seemed more glowing than ever as the Commerce Department said businessmen have sharply increased their plans for spending on plant and equipment in the past few months.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to 1 or 2 points on a broad front while some of the more expensive and more volatile stocks ran up several points. Du Pont, a heavyweight blue chip, gained 6, contributing greatly to the rise in the averages.

Stock groups favored in the big autumnal rise were bought heavily again. These included color televisions, other electronics, airlines, aerospace defense stocks, office equipments and others.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .80 at 91.39. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 3.4 to 354.1 with industrials up 6.1, rails up 1.6 and utilities up .7. This was the largest rise since June 30 when the average rose 6.5.

Of 1,420 issues traded, 869 advanced and 336 declined. New highs for the year totaled 94 and new lows 44.

Fourteen of the 15 most active stocks rose, Curtiss Wright, off 1⅛, being the only loser, Sperry Rand was the most active stock. It made an upside breakout to a new high and climbed 1¼ to 21⅛ on 361,900 shares.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.62 million shares compared with 4.15 million Monday.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds edged upward following their slide on news of higher interest rates.

Soybean Futures Add New Gains

Chicago (AP) — Soybean futures added further moderate gains Tuesday with some contracts again at season highs but other commodities in the grain futures market closed little changed.

Wheat finished steady to easier, corn, oats and rye narrowly mixed.

Trade volume probably was the smallest in many days with demand slow and offerings limited largely to scattered or moderate profit cashing.

Wheat was unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower at the close, December $1.63⅜-63⅝; corn ⅜ higher to ½ lower, December $1.21¼-⅜; oats ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, December 72⅜ cents; rye ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, December $1.21⅛; soybeans 1⅛-1½ higher, January $2.66¼-⅛.

Gains Made In Area Employment

In the Lincoln area total employment increased by 150 over the September level. Mild, dry weather was responsible for this employment increase with unemployment remaining at the same level as a month ago estimated at 1,350 or 1.8% of the total civilian labor force.

Clerical and sales workers were among the most prevalent job-seekers constituting 28% of the unemployed.

Approximately 50% of the job-seekers were male compared to 51% a month prior.

Various gains and losses within different industries tended to offset one another resulting in wage and salary employment remaining at a level of 63,750 for two consecutive months.

Wholesale and retail trade began the usual seasonal upward trend with the addition of 100 workers in anticipation of the holiday rush.

Construction employment remained within 50 of the previous month as favorable weather prevailed. Service employment declined by 300 as a result of losses in the "other" services sub-segment.

Lincoln area nonagricultural wage and salary workers totaled 1,700 more than one year ago in October. Government employment, up 700, recorded the largest increase for the 12-month period as educational services were expanded.

Manufacturing employment has recorded an increase of 400 workers since one year ago and transportation, communications and utilities payrolls totaled 200 more than in October 1964. Construction employment levels remained 200 above last year while trade employment totaled 50 more than a year ago.

Future trends indicate unemploymemt will show a slight rise during the next 30 days, especially if winter weather should arrive.

Lincoln wage and salary employment as a whole is expected to remain fairly close to the present level during the next 30 days.

Gains Made In Area Employment

In the Lincoln area total employment increased by 150 over the September level. Mild, dry weather was responsible for this employment increase with unemployment remaining at the same level as a month ago estimated at 1,350 or 1.8% of the total civilian labor force.

Clerical and sales workers were among the most prevalent job-seekers constituting 28% of the unemployed.

Approximately 50% of the job-seekers were male compared to 51% a month prior.

Various gains and losses within different industries tended to offset one another resulting in wage and salary employment remaining at a level of 63,750 for two consecutive months.

Government employment, up 250, recorded the largest gain for the 30-day period as educational institutions expanded their staffs.

Wholesale and retail trade began the usual seasonal upward trend with the addition of 100 workers in anticipation of the holiday rush.

Construction employment remained within 50 of the previous month as favorable weather prevailed. Service employment declined by 300 as a result of losses in the "other" services sub-segment.

Lincoln area nonagricultural wage and salary workers totaled 1,700 more than one year ago in October. Government employment, up 700, recorded the largest increase for the 12-month period as educational services were expanded.

Manufacturing employment has recorded an increase of 400 workers since one year ago and transportation, communications and utilities payrolls totaled 200 more than in October 1964. Construction employment levels remained 200 above last year while trade employment totaled 50 more than a year ago.

Future trends indicate unemploymemt will show a slight rise during the next 30 days, especially if winter weather should arrive.

Lincoln wage and salary employment as a whole is expected to remain fairly close to the present level during the next 30 days.

Sunday Battle Renewed

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Americans and communists who fought in the battle of the Michelin rubber plantation Sunday clashed briefly again Tuesday on the plantation's outskirts. U.S. air and artillery bombardment ran off the Red detachment.

Emerging from a short firefight across a clearing, a battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division found three of the enemy dead and captured one who said he was a North Vietnamese regular. The prisoner reported he was in a heavy weapons company attached to a Viet Cong regiment prowling the area 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The American also found a major enemy training camp. There was a command bunker 50 feet under ground and classrooms complete with models of American fighting planes. Two helicopters were needed to fly out arms and equipment the Viet Cong left behind.

Enemy Dead 23

The battalion's casualties, rated as moderate over-all Sunday, were termed light in the latest action. A U.S. military spokesman said the enemy dead Sunday totaled 231.

Viet Cong units, punching out in various areas of South Viet Nam in the past few days, apparently were pulling in their horns.

U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes hit at suspected Red centers in South Viet Nam. They flew 408 combat sorties and unlaoded 330 tons of bombs. Briefing officers said they smashed some jungle village buildings and sank 14 sampans of the Viet Cong.

The aerial campaign against North Viet Nam eased off because of bad weather at the start of its 10th month.

Temporary Lull

This appeared to be only a temporary lull, however. Defense Secretary Rober S. McNamara announced Nov. 25 that increased emphasis could be expected in the drive to reduce the flow of Hanoi's troops and supplies to South Viet Nam.

Jet fighter-bombers of the 76,700-ton carrier Kitty Hawk, launched despite a series of shipboard fires, helped a naval-Marine landing force to clear up a shore area about 300 miles northeast of Saigon, kill 25 Viet Cong, capture 5 Monday.

A series of fires had broken out on the Kitty Hawk while she was refuelling from a tanker alongside. Two sailors died of smoke inhalation and 28 others and a civilian were overcome in the working and living spaces below decks.

Firemen Die

In Washington, the Navy identified the dead as Fireman Apprentice Charles A. Philhower of Denville, N.J., and Fireman Billy D. Hooper of Blue Earth, Minn

Two American airmen were lost in the flaming crash of their F4C Phantom jet in the highlands 280 miles northeast of Saigon. One was found dead, hanging in a tree from a parachute that had failed to open, and the other was presumed dead within the plane's debris.
